Shipment Of Arms To Western Europe Being Stepped Up

U.S. Getting Ready For Possible Trouble There

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States is stepping up its arms shipments to Western Europe and other free nations in an effort to be ready for any new trouble with Soviet Russia, it was disclosed today.

Although no one knew definitely that the Russians and their satellites are planning any operations outside of Korea, one key official told newsmen:

"We are aware that the event in Korea may be just one of a series of unpleasant things if we let our guard down."

Coast Defence In U.S. Gears Up For Action

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—West coast military bases tightened security regulations today and ordered other "precautionary" defence measures reminiscent of pre-World War II days. The preparations, touched off by the tense Korean situation, were taken in stride by residents who were answering the call for tens of thousands of civilian volunteers to man a giant air raid warning system along the entire seaboard.

Fourth of July celebrations were immediately affected by the security measures as the navy barred visitors from warships and installations and canceled scheduled Independence Day visits of warships to Pacific ports. Most army posts required a special pass for admission.

Meanwhile, formation of a large carrier-led task force on the west coast was well underway and the western air defence command maintained round-the-clock radar and fighter plane reconnaissance along the coast.

WILL UNDERSTAND
Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Pacific fleet commander who issued the new security regulations for navy bases, said he "regretted" the necessity of canceling courtesy visits to west coast ports by navy ships.

He added that he was "sure cities and organizations would understand and co-operate in the need for such abrupt action."

The call for volunteers to man the air raid warning network was issued by the western air defence command with headquarters at Hamilton Field, Calif.

Plans call for establishment of one warning post for every eight miles along the coast. In California alone, 20,000 to 30,000 volunteers are needed to man 1,000 posts. Some 250 of them already are operating. Officers said volunteers should apply to the mayor or governing body in large cities and to county boards of supervisors in rural areas.

MANY NATIONS LINE UP WITH U.S. IN FIGHT

MacArthur May Lead 8 Countries' Forces

LAKE SUCCESS (UP)—Nation after nation enlisted today in the United Nations' force to help the United States drive the Communist invaders from Southern Korea.

Gen. MacArthur seemed destined to lead an international force of powerful military and naval units assigned by at least eight foreign nations in addition to U.S. forces.

Also, pledges of aid and assignment of token fighting contingents were anticipated from many smaller countries.

Great Britain, Australia and New Zealand were the first U.N. members to pitch in with valuable naval combat units to back up American units already in the field.

Canada, France, China, The Netherlands and The Philippines were expected to follow suit quickly in assembling military might to enforce U.N. sanctions against Red Korea.

FROM SOUTH AMERICA
The 21 Latin-American countries, through the Organization of American States, endorsed the Security Council's sanctions resolution and pledged a solid front against Korean Communists.

The North Atlantic Pact nations, through their planning board for ocean shipping, speeded plans for joint deployment of merchant ships. The board includes the United States, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Italy, Norway, Denmark, Iceland and Portugal. It controls more than 18,000 vessels, representing three-fourths of the world's merchant navy.

AWAIT REPLY
Official Washington awaited with some apprehension Russia's response to the State Department's request that Moscow use its power to halt the Korean fighting. Moscow's answer—one that may chart the course of world events toward peace or war—may be delayed until the Kremlin gets a better idea of the effectiveness of American military intervention. The American request reached the Soviet capital Tuesday.

Acheson made it clear Wednesday this government does not expect an all-out war.

"This is a time for very steady and sober talk and action," he said. "It is not a time for general speculation, for trying to stir up difficulties which don't exist, for imagining possibilities which are remote."

Ships Collide In English Channel
AMSTERDAM (UP)—The 5,056-ton British ship Uffington Court radioed today that she had collided in a fog in the English Channel with a vessel believed to be the 3,250-ton Spanish vessel Conde de Zubiria. The Uffington Court said it had suffered no damage.

The couple left their Galiano Island home last Sunday on a fishing trip. A day later two Indians discovered their craft adrift near Cable Bay, halfway up the east coast of the long, narrow island.

Police believed that either Capt. or Mrs. Waard fell overboard and both drowned while attempting to save the other. The fish poles were down and the lines were out when the boat was found, police said.

Capt. Waard several years ago sailed the junk Amoy across the North Pacific to Victoria in about 85 days. His wife was Chinese.

Vancouver Seen As 'Belgium' Of Pacific
VANCOUVER (BUP)—Vancouver could become another Belgium, a shipping line official predicted here.

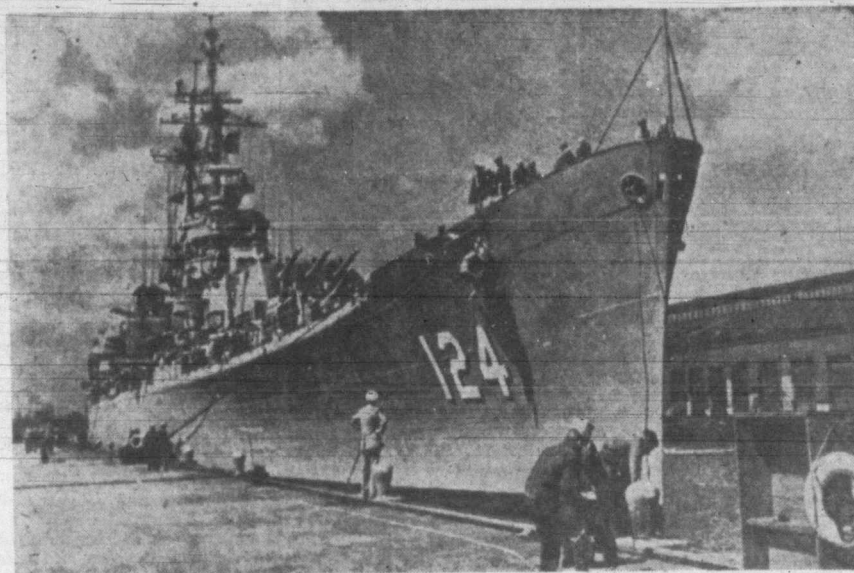

When Canada starts sending arms aid to Korea, Vancouver will become the Belgium of the Pacific, warned J. L. Howell, manager of the Royal Mail Lines.

Howell made the prediction in commenting on a federal promise that Canada would assist Southern Korea if asked by the United Nations.

Shipping men said Vancouver is the logical port of embarkation for arms shipments to the Far East and at the same time within reach of long-range Russian bombers, operating from Siberia.

Australian Navy Supports Moves Of U.S. In Korea

CANBERRA (CP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced today that Australian naval units in Japanese waters will support United States forces fighting in South Korea.

Body Of Wife Found In Hunt For Waards

Provincial police today reported the recovery of the body of Mrs. George Waard, believed drowned with her husband last week-end in the Gulf of Georgia.

The body of the woman was discovered by two men near the wharf at Galiano Island Wednesday at 6, about four miles from where Waard's drifting fishboat was found Tuesday, police reported.

Capt. Waard, who was presumed also aboard the ill-fated fishing boat, was still missing police said.

The couple left their Galiano Island home last Sunday on a fishing trip. A day later two Indians discovered their craft adrift near Cable Bay, halfway up the east coast of the long, narrow island.

Howell made the prediction in commenting on a federal promise that Canada would assist Southern Korea if asked by the United Nations.

Shipping men said Vancouver is the logical port of embarkation for arms shipments to the Far East and at the same time within reach of long-range Russian bombers, operating from Siberia.

Ships immediately concerned, are the frigate Shoal Haven and the destroyer Bataan.

An authoritative government source said that until the Korean situation is clarified, the 3,000 Australian soldiers now in Japan probably will be kept there. They had been scheduled for early withdrawal.

Menzies in a statement said his government had informed the United Nations Security Council and the United States that it would support the council resolution calling for military support of the South Korean government.

Australia's decision also has been communicated to the British government, Menzies said.

No decision has been reached on the use of the Royal Australian Air Force fighter squadron in Japan, reliable sources said.

In Auckland Prime Minister Sydney C. Holland of New Zealand said his government was prepared to make units of the New Zealand Navy available to the United States also.

26 Paratroops Jump As Plane Crashes, Burns

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Twenty-six paratroopers on a night-jump mission safely bailed out of a transport plane Wednesday night a few minutes before it crashed and burned, killing four crewmen.

The bodies of the crew members, who apparently tried to bring the plane back to its base with one engine afire, were found in the wreckage about 20 miles from where the troopers landed.

The 11th Airborne Division at Fort Campbell, Ky., where the paratroopers were stationed, sent trucks to bring them back to the airfield, where they had been scheduled to jump.

The twin-engine Fairchild packet was one of 32 planes of the 37th Troop Carrier Squadron, 314th Troop Carrier Wing, taking part in a night manoeuvre.

Alert When Plane Flies Near U.S. Base In Japan
ITAZUKE AIR BASE, Japan (BUP)—An unidentified plane tonight (Wednesday) flew near this U.S. air base for the American aerial support of South Korea, but disappeared when U.S. fighters warned aloft.

Air raid sirens wailed their spine-chilling alert in Japan for the first time since 1945 at 10:05 p.m. The all-clear sounded at 10:55 p.m.

The official count of the alert gave no positive answer whether airmen from the Communist side of the Korean battlefield had undertaken their first reprisal blow at U.S. installations in Japan.

It is said an "unidentified aircraft" was picked up, and fighters went up to intercept it. But it had disappeared, the account said. There was no explanation of a bright flash which appeared on the horizon a few minutes before the all-clear.

When the alarm sounded, the lights were doused and U.S. fighters took off like a flock of startled quail. The men not thrown into the counter-move hurried to shelters, and the field lay ghost-like and dead under a brilliant bombers' moon.

Occasionally an unseen plane reared overhead. They were American, apparently, for no bombs came.

MacArthur Returns To Tokyo From Battlefield

TOKYO (UP)—South Korean forces have launched a counter-offensive near Seoul which has recaptured the strategic Kimpo Airport, Allied headquarters announced today (Friday).

Korean dispatches reported that thousands of trucks were rolling Korean Republican forces up to the Han River line just below Seoul for a showdown with the Communist invasion troops massed on the north bank.

U.S. naval forces went into action against Communist bridgeheads along the South Korean coast, adding new weight to the armed forces being arrayed against the Communists.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported in a mid-night communique that the fighting lines across the narrow waist of Korea were "fairly stabilized."

The communique said U.S. warships attacked at several points along the Korean coast where North Korean amphibious forces had established beachheads.

The naval attacks were centered in the Samchok area, on the east coast a few miles below the 38th parallel dividing north and south Korea.

Other U.S. warships attacked naval and ground units in the vicinity of Inchon, the West Korean port for Seoul.

"Poor visibility obscured the results of both strikes," the communique said.

PLANES ACTIVE
The communique reported several strafing missions Thursday by U.S. F-82 and F-80 fighters, in which a number of North Korean trucks and a locomotive were destroyed.

The Ongjin Peninsula northwest of Seoul was reported to be completely in the hands of the North Koreans.

The North Koreans were reported forming their lines along the north bank of the Han River to the northwest of Seoul, while South Korean forces were digging in along the south bank.

Eastward from Seoul, the communique said, the line extended generally to the northeast to Kapyong, 40 miles from Seoul, to Chunchon, a few miles farther upriver, and then generally eastward to the coast.

"From this point to Samchok, the North Koreans have consolidated two beach landings to hold a narrow strip a few miles deep," the communique said.

The turn of the fighting in Korea was reported soon after MacArthur returned to Tokyo from a front line inspection of the Korean lines and talks with Korean and American officials there.

U.S. Ambassador John H. Muccio said at Taejon, provisional capital of South Korea, that MacArthur's conferences with himself and President Eyngman Rhee at an advanced U.S. base were "carried out very satisfactorily."

ENVOY CHEERFUL
He said it was heartening to see "thousands of trucks heading northward loaded with reformed and regrouped South Korean soldiers going to the front."

A Taejon dispatch from United Press correspondent Jack James, giving Muccio's report on the conference, said the South Koreans were holding fast on the south bank of the Han River, except for a small Communist bridgehead.

The northerners staked across the broad stream flowing just south of Seoul early this morning. They seized a toehold on the south bank, but were unable to expand it.

"The South Koreans have not driven the Reds back yet, but are preparing an offensive to eliminate the bridgehead tomorrow," the Taejon dispatch said.

The optimistic picture of a turning tide of war in Korea marked a complete reversal within 24 hours. Only Wednesday, Communist forces were reported pushing southward virtually without opposition after the fall of Seoul.

The later dispatches indicated the northerners sent exploratory spearheads across the Han toward the U.S. headquarters at Suwon, only to have them turned back by stiffening South Korean resistance and the onslaught by American air forces.

Casualties Of U.S. In Korea At Least 15
WASHINGTON (UP)—A U.S. army spokesman said today that at least three—and probably six—Americans have been killed and 12 are missing in the Korean conflict.

The spokesman said no U.S. combat troops so far had been sent to Korea and that no request to send them had been received from Gen. MacArthur.

Concerning the U.S. casualties, the army spokesman said three Americans were killed in action and that 12 were missing. He presumed they were military personnel, but he had nothing but the bare report.

An airforce spokesman said three U.S. airmen were killed when their B-26 crashed on returning to its home base from a combat mission to South Korea.

Social Season In Moscow As Koreans Fight

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—The fighting in Korea has made the Russian people neither excited nor nervous.

For all that the behavior of the men and women in the street would indicate, this week has been just like any other.

Nothing even resembling undue agitation among the people has appeared.

The city's summer social season is at its height for the diplomatic corps, with numerous parties being given. Wednesday night black ties and bare shoulders hurried to radios to hear President Truman speak to the American Newspaper Guild. Reception was good.

"Truman told the guild's annual convention in Washington that the United States must counteract 'the Communist weapon of fear.' He pledged U.S. help to people of other lands in their struggle to keep free."

Moscow newspapers follow the Korean situation closely. Here are some of today's headlines:

"People's army liberates city of Seoul."

"Aggressive actions by United States in Korea."

"How aggression against Korean People's Democratic Republic was prepared."

WANTS LAW AGAINST SEX
OFFENDERS TIGHTENED UP

An amendment to the Criminal Code to protect children from sex offenders, was suggested by E. B. Bull at the annual meeting of the B.C. section of the Canadian Bar Association at the Empress Hotel today.

The amendment would permit police to lay a charge of vagrancy against a person who has been convicted of a sexual offence against a child, and who, when found loitering in the immediate vicinity of school or playgrounds where children are congregated, fails to give a reasonable excuse of his presence.

"The committee is loth to recommend anything that hampers the freedom of citizens, and also abhors any philosophy that damns a transgressor for ever after his penalty to society has been paid," he said. "But we feel that children should be protected from sex offenders."

Mr. Bull said it was well known that "mentally diseased unfortunates" had tendencies to frequent places where children congregated. But he pointed out unless they did something contrary to law, police were helpless to stop what on the surface was a perfectly harmless watching of children playing by a person known to have criminal sexual tendencies.

Complete Approval
Given Arena FloorMulliner To Recommend
Acceptance By Council

The contentious arena floor which C. T. Hamilton, consulting engineer, refused to accept from the contractors, Luney Bros. and Hamilton, was given a clean bill of health today.

The contractors were vindicated with announcement from Ald. Frank G. Mulliner, chairman of the arena committee, that he will recommend acceptance of the floor to City Council meeting Tuesday.

He released the report of W. G. Swan, consulting engineer from Vancouver, who surveyed the floor Wednesday.

Mrs. Pitre o
Go On Trial
Before Jury

QUEBEC (CP)—Judge Lae-tare Roy today ordered Mrs. Arthur Pitre, important figure in Quebec's airline time-bombing case, to stand trial on a charge of witness intimidation.

Judge Roy gave his ruling—that the 41-year-old woman be tried at the autumn term of the criminal assizes—after a brief preliminary hearing today.

Witnesses at the hearing were Mrs. Paul-Ernest Bergeron, Miss Marguerite Lachance and Robert Cottart. They testified Mrs. Pitre had threatened Miss Lachance June 14.

At the time they were awaiting court appearance in the case of 31-year-old Genevieve Ruest, brother of Mrs. Pitre, who has admitted putting together a time-bomb that wrecked an airliner last September, Ruest now faces trial next autumn on a charge of murder.

The three witnesses appearing today said Mrs. Pitre told Miss Lachance:

"Keep your mouth shut—I have struck before and I can strike again."

NAVAL BASE
STAYS OPEN

No added precautions are being taken at Esquimalt naval base against possible fifth column activities resulting from the Korean crisis.

This was learned today from officials at the Pacific coast navy headquarters, who said they had not been instructed to follow the lead of the U.S. Navy in closing stations on the coast to casual visitors.

"We can't see any reason why any extra precautions should be taken," one Esquimalt officer stated.

U.S. Arms Shipments To Europe Being Stepped Up

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States is stepping up its arms shipments to Western Europe and other free nations in an effort to be ready for any new trouble with Soviet Russia. It was disclosed today.

Although no one knew definitely that the Russians and their satellites are planning any operations outside of Korea, one key official told newsmen:

"We are aware that the event in Korea may be just one of a series of unpleasant things if we let our guard down."

Disclosure by State and Defense Department sources that the arms aid shipments have been stepped up since the South Korean invasion underscored intelligence reports that a major "war of nerves" is boiling in eastern Europe.

According to these reports, Soviet ships and planes in substantial force are manoeuvring in the Black Sea, uncomfortably close to friendly Turkey, and Soviet satellite armies and air forces also have expanded their operations.

In an effort to bolster U.S. military strength in Europe, some high ranking military officers were seeking to swing Congress behind new moves to bring Spain into the western defence orbit.

President Truman and Secretary of State Dean Acheson had another opportunity today to report directly to the American people on the status of the cold war with Russia and on the administration's decision to intervene in the Korean war under United Nations authority.

Mr. Truman scheduled a news conference this afternoon while Acheson was slated to address the national convention of the American Newspaper Guild.

Official Washington awaited with some apprehension Russia's response to the State Department's request that Moscow use its power to halt the Korean fighting.

Moscow's answer—one that may chart the course of world events toward peace or war—may be delayed until the Kremlin gets a better idea of the effectiveness of American military intervention. The American request reached the Soviet capital Tuesday.

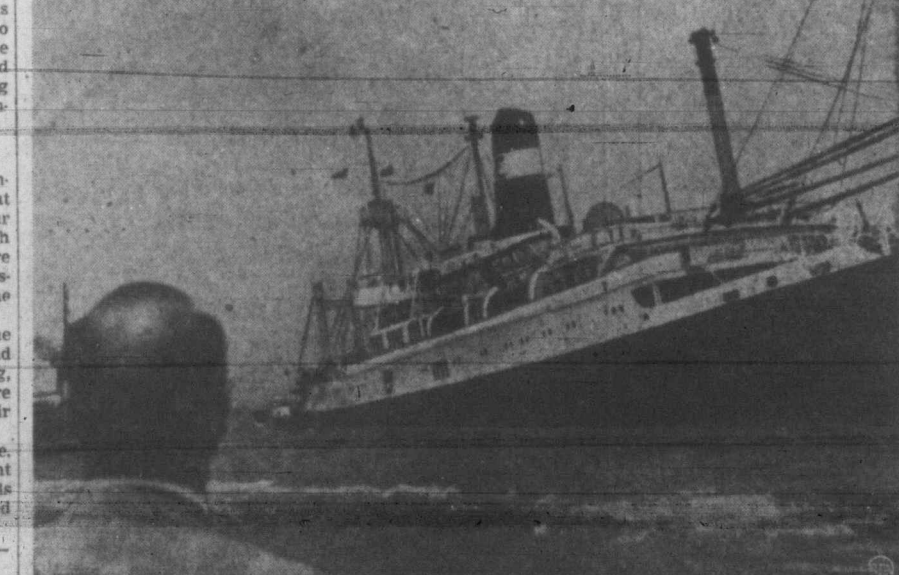

Acheson made it clear Wednesday this government does not expect an all-out war.

"This is a time for very steady and sober talk and action," he said. "It is not a time for general speculation, for trying to stir up difficulties which don't exist, for imagining possibilities which are remote."

The Kremlin communication calls for no answer and, a high U.N. official said, no answer is likely to be given either by Secretary-General Trygve Lie or the Security Council.

India's announcement today it would support fully the American-sponsored sanctions resolution removed Russia's allegation that the measure was illegal because it had received only six legal votes.

Big Coalition
Of Nations To Act On KoreaMacArthur Likely To Lead Strong Alliance

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (UP)—India aligned itself with the West today and announced that it would support the U.S.-sponsored resolution for sanctions against Korea as the United Nations prepared to pigeonhole Russia's protest against the Security Council's authorization of fighting aid to South Korea.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie announced he had canceled his scheduled trip to Europe because of the world crisis.

A spokesman said Lie had no comment on the Russian note which was addressed to him and signed by Andrei A. Gromyko, First Deputy Soviet Minister of Foreign Affairs.

The announcement from New Delhi ended two days' speculation as to whether Jawaharlal Pandit Nehru's government would abandon its declared position of neutrality between East and West and join the non-Communist world in approving aid to hurl back the Communist invasion of South Korea.

The Indian announcement had not yet been received here. When it arrives, Sir Benegal Rau, chief of the Indian delegation and President of the Security Council, was expected to make a formal declaration of New Delhi's position.

EGYPT WAITING

When the vote on sanctions was taken here last Tuesday, India, along with Egypt, abstained from voting, and both countries reserved the right to express their positions later. The Egyptian position still was not known.

High U.N. sources said little heed was likely to be paid to Russia's note condemning the sanctions resolution.

The note, broadcast Wednesday night by the official Soviet news agency, was received by U.N. headquarters today.

The Kremlin communication calls for no answer and, a high U.N. official said, no answer is likely to be given either by Secretary-General Trygve Lie or the Security Council.

India's announcement today it would support fully the American-sponsored sanctions resolution removed Russia's allegation that the measure was illegal because it had received only six legal votes.

South Koreans Surging Back

Backed by U.S. arms and planes, South Koreans have reformed their shattered ranks following the first onrush of North Koreans (direction of which is shown by arrow on map) and are now engaged in a fierce battle along the Han River, centre, near Seoul, capital of the Southern Republic. Meanwhile airfield at Kimpo, northwest of Seoul has been recaptured from the Communists.

Bow-Arrow Hunting
Again Permitted In B.C.

A two-year ban on bow and arrow hunting in B.C. was lifted today by the government.

The modern Robin Hood will be restricted in his activities, though.

Provincial cabinet-passed regulations which say that the ancient weapon can be used only for hunting big game and grouse.

The bow and arrow hunter must have a hunting license, too, and his bow must have a pull of at least 40 pounds at full draw.

Use of poison or exploding arrows is prohibited, and hunters must not have them in their possession when stalking big game or grouse.

Regulations take in the type of arrow head to be used, too: 1. Blunt arrows must have a flat face of not less than three-eighths of an inch. 2. Broadheads must be at least seven-eighths of an inch wide at the widest point.

Arrows must be sturdily constructed and well sharpened. Bow and arrow hunting was outlawed about two years ago when the S.P.C.A. charged cruelty in that animals and birds were not being killed outright.

The society received some support from game associations, but bow and arrow enthusiasts argued they should be allowed to hunt provided proper equipment was used.

Small Debts
Suit On Steel
In Arena Floor

Luney Bros. & Hamilton, contractors who built the arena floor, were summoned to appear in small debts court for failure to pay $54 to Charles T. Hamilton, consulting engineer, Walter Luney said today.

They will appear in County Court July 18, at 2. Crease, Davey & Co. will handle their case.

"We are charged with not supplying plans for reinforcing steel details as per specifications amounting to 18 tons at $3 a ton," Mr. Luney said.

He contended the architect, not the contractor, supplies such plans, and added that the city already had the steel on the job.

"Our contract states that Mr. Hamilton will supply complete lists of all reinforcing steel required, showing all necessary details for the bending and placing of same," said William J. Hamilton of the contracting firm.

"The steel was already on the job. We did not have to buy any. No list was necessary and has never been supplied by Mr. Hamilton."

PRIVY COUNCIL SOON TO GIVE MARGARINE RULING

LONDON (CP)—The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council today reserved judgment in the Canadian margarine case.

In hearings extended over six days, the committee had been hearing legal arguments in an appeal brought by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture against a Supreme Court judgment permitting the sale of margarine in Canada.

The Supreme Court found that Section 5A of the Dairy Industry Act, prohibiting the manufacture, sale or possession of margarine or other substitutes for butter was ultra vires of the Canadian Parliament.

Five of seven Supreme Court judges held it was legislation in relation to civil rights and thus within exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces.

Two provinces—Quebec and Prince Edward Island—subsequently enacted legislation banning the sale and manufacture of margarine within their boundaries. The remaining eight provinces permit its sale and manufacture, but some have made it illegal to sell margarine colored to resemble butter.

At Least 3
Yanks Killed,
12 Missing

TOKYO (CP)—South Korean forces, heartened by U.S. air and naval attacks on Communist invaders, today recaptured a strategic airfield and locked in a fierce battle along the Han River near fallen Seoul, their capital.

B-29 Superforts blasted the way for South Koreans to recapture strategic Kimpo airport, 16 miles northwest of Seoul. A U.S. army report here said fighting lines were becoming fairly well stabilized.

American warships, ordered to prevent Communist sea-borne reinforcements from landing, shelled North Korean naval and ground units near the Communist-held South Korea port of Inchon.

Other U.S. warships struck at North Korean shore targets and naval units on the east coast in the area of Samchok, about 40 miles south of the 38th parallel, which is the border between the two Koreas. There were no reports of British naval units being in action yet.

(A United Press dispatch from Washington said at least three and possibly six Americans have been killed and 12 are missing in the Korean conflict. An army spokesman said he presumed the casualties were military personnel but he had nothing but the bare report.)

(An air force spokesman said three U.S. airmen were killed when their B-26 crashed on returning to its home base from a combat mission in South Korea.)

About 25,000 troops on each side face each other along the Han River, which runs from a point southeast of Seoul westward to the Yellow Sea.

FIGHT TO END

The South Koreans have been ordered to hold this line at all costs. Reuter's News Agency quoted General MacArthur's headquarters as saying the Communists had established two bridgeheads across the river, but added that the South Koreans had established their positions and were reorganizing.

The 75-mile battle line protects the American air beachhead in Korea and field headquarters of Gen. MacArthur's officers. MacArthur's officers said they believe the South Koreans can hold it now.

MacArthur, back in Tokyo after a 15-hour flying visit to the front, appeared heartened by the stiffening resistance he saw and the morale of the Koreans, who cheered him. The southerners apparently were recovering from the initial shock of the Communist invasion. Infantry units once cut off by the Red tank attack which enveloped Seoul were being regrouped swiftly to join the counter-offensive, U.S. military observers said.

The South Koreans moved in at least temporarily—on Kimpo airfield just after American bombers blasted the Communists out of the field. Seoul appeared for the present firmly in Red hands, with street fighting virtually at an end.

BACK AT ULJONGBU

American bombing and supply operations were stepped up with the entrance of the B-29 superforts into the mounting offensive. Other B-29s bombed targets near Inchon and Seoul and along the 38th parallel. Behind the assault the resurgent defenders drove back into Kimpo field and to the north, engaged the Reds at captured Uijongbu, 12 miles north of Seoul.

MacArthur, commander-in-chief of U.S. Pacific forces, who is leading the United Nations in determined measures to stop the Red invasion, drove by automobile to the edge of Seoul and saw the toughening resistance behind American air strength. After 15 hours at the front, he returned to Tokyo. Communist planes dogged him and one which tried to attack his transport was driven off by an American fighter escort.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

QUOTE AND UNQUOTE

SINCE MY LAST column appeared I have been traveling—and, indeed, by the time this appears I will have been on the move again, this time to Newfoundland and Nova Scotia. But in the meantime I want to record one or two things which happened while I was in Ottawa at the beginning of the month.

Incidentally, that city gave me a warm welcome! So warm that the temperature climbed to the near-nineties, reducing me to a condition comparable to a piece of chewed string, as limp as the proverbial dish-rag. And when, despite the heat, you have to preside at a convention of some hundreds of delegates—well! There were times when I would have preferred a nice, cool iceberg for a rostrum.

PARLIAMENTARY HEAT

UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES, I wasn't a bit surprised when signs were evidenced of heat in the House of Commons. It's a pretty grueling ordeal for M.P.'s when, at the end of an already long session, they have to sit morning, noon and night in the confines of the Chamber on baking summer days. Even the coolest heads will, under those circumstances, generate heat at the slightest provocation.

But, to me, there was something laughable about one exchange which arose on the Friday evening while I was there. It was during the prolonged debate on national defence when a member of the Opposition, clashing with a Government supporter, said he proposed to quote briefly from Shakespeare's "King Lear." Whereupon one wit interjected: "Make it 'Much Ado About Nothing'." And another, evidently suffering from the heat, added: "Make it 'Midsummer Night's Dream'."

SHAKESPEARE VETOED

THE OPPOSITION MEMBER, in a biting exchange, said his opponent reminded him of Oswald in King Lear, and urged him to read the condemnation of Oswald recorded in Act Two, Scene Two, of the play. At that point the chairman—the House was in committee at the time—intervened to rule the speaker out of order, saying Shakespeare had no part in a defence debate.

However, the M.P. on the receiving end of the attack went out to look up the Shakespearean passage. And, a few moments later, stormed back into the chamber and began an irate whispered colloquy with the M.P. whom he claimed had insulted him. When the Speaker resumed the chair, the Government member arose and, on a point of privilege, demanded the reference be expurgated from Hansard.

FIGHTING LANGUAGE

HE CLAIMED that the quotation, as applied to him, was "a disgrace. It is nothing but fighting language." For the sake of the curious, and to save them the trouble of looking up the passage in question, I am quoting it here:

"That such a slave as this should wear a sword,
Who wears no honesty. Such smiling rogues as these, like rats
Off bite the holy cords atwain
Which are too intrinse 'unloose; smooth every passion
That in the nature of their lords rebels;
Bring oil to fire, snow to their colder moods;
Renege, affirm, and turn their halcyon beaks
With every gale and vary of their masters
Knowing naught, like dogs, but following.
A plague upon your epileptic visage!
Smile you at my speeches as I were a fool?
Goose, if I had you upon Sarum Plain,
I'd drive ye cackling home to Camelot."

TIMES CHANGE

THIS BANNING of Shakespeare from the House reminds us that while politics are much more honest than they used to be, they are, alas, not so colorful and entertaining. Flowery oratory has given way to more prosaic, and sometimes dull, presentations of facts and figures. Debate is no longer a series of rapier-like sallies of wit and invective but a somewhat labored and boring exchange.

This expurgation of the more piquant passages of "King Lear" from the Hansard records also lends nostalgic interest to the words of a long-dead writer: "Quotations (such as have point and lack triteness) from the great old authors are an act of filial reverence on the part of the quoter, and a blessing to a public grown superficial and external."

City Contractors Agree To Conciliation Report

Will Pay Wage Increase To Carpenters Who Are Balking At Work Stoppage Prevention

HOPE CRACK BRINGS SUIT

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Hope faces a $100,000 libel and slander suit because of a wisecrack about a Manhattan hotel.

The suit said Hope cracked: "I got into town today and the mayor met me and gave me the key to the city and I checked in at the Forrest Hotel on 49th Street, where they gave me a cell—the maid changes the rats every day."

Exchange president J. A. Polard said members agreed to start paying carpenters the $1.63 an hour recommended by the board. The increase will become effective July 1.

The union, meanwhile, has objected to the report because of a clause which had been sought by the exchange aimed at preventing work stoppages.

It was reported the carpenters also were dissatisfied with the $1.63 wage rate.

Regardless of this, it is reported the union would accept the report. If the work stoppage clause was eliminated.

Douk Problem For Ottawa Says Wismer

B.C.'s Doukhobor problem has grown to such proportions that it is time federal authorities stepped into the picture, Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer told people of this province in a radio address.

Damage done by radical members of the strange religious sect in the last 25 years total more than $1,500,000, Mr. Wismer said. "There have been 384 occurrences of fanatical sabotage," he reported. "Forty-eight schools have been destroyed by fire or dynamite, while many more have been damaged."

"When we find a group of fanatics brought here by the national government constituting the entire population of more than one village, openly and continuously carrying on a reign of terror and violence, then I say the matter is more than is envisaged in the provincial responsibility for the administration of justice."

"I say it is a civil insurrection," Mr. Wismer declared.

Make Strawberry Jam this Easy, Short-Boil Way

1 THIS "SURE-RESULTS" RECIPE WILL SAVE TWO-THIRDS OF YOUR TIME

Crush thoroughly 2 quarts of fully ripe berries. (Use ripe fruit, not the under-ripe fruit called for in old-fashioned recipes.) Measure 4 cups of the crushed fruit and 7 cups of sugar into large sauce-pan. Mix well. Bring to full rolling boil over high heat. Stir constantly before and while boiling.

2 BOIL MIXTURE ONE MINUTE ONLY KEEP FRESH FLAVOR AND COLOR

Here's where you save time and work! BOIL HARD ONE MINUTE BY THE CLOCK! (This short boil retains the luscious taste and lovely color of the fresh fruit.) Remove from heat. Stir in half-bottle of CERTO Fruit Pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit.

3 YOU'LL GET 50% MORE JAM FROM SAME AMOUNT OF FRUIT

Because you don't have to "boil down" your fruit to make it set, very little juice wastes away in steam. You'll have about 10 glasses to ladle and paraffin instead of the 6 to be expected from old-fashioned long-boil recipes. With CERTO you average 50% MORE jam from the same amount of fruit.

4 NO GUESS WORK. FOR SURE RESULTS FOLLOW SIMPLE DIRECTIONS EXACTLY

With CERTO you get a booklet of 78 kitchen-tested recipes... a separate one for each fruit since different fruits need different handling. Follow the simple directions exactly and you'll have bright, sparkling, better-tasting jams and jellies whatever fruit you use. Even beginners can be sure of results with CERTO.

CERTO BRAND FRUIT PECTIN

CERTO is fruit pectin—the natural jelling substance in fruit—extracted and concentrated for easier, quicker, better jam and jelly making.

Australian Fleet Backs U.S. Action

New Zealand Govt. Also Offers Ships To Help Stop Reds In Korea

CANBERRA (CP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced today that Australian naval units in Japanese waters will support United States forces fighting in South Korea.

Ships immediately concerned are the frigate Shoal Haven and the destroyer Bataan.

An authoritative government source said that until the Korean situation is clarified, the 3,000 Australian soldiers now in Japan probably will be kept there. They had been scheduled for early withdrawal.

Menzies in a statement said his government had informed the United Nations Security Council and the United States that it would support the council resolution calling for military support of the South Korean government.

An Australian decision also has been communicated to the British government, Menzies said.

No decision has been reached on the use of the Royal Australian Air Force fighter squadron in Japan, reliable sources said.

Coast Defence In U.S. Gears Up For Action

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—West coast military bases tightened security regulations today and ordered other "precautionary" defense measures reminiscent of pre-World War II days.

The preparations, touched off by the tense Korean situation, were taken in stride by residents who were answering the call for tens of thousands of civilian volunteers to man a giant air raid warning system along the entire seaboard.

Fourth of July celebrations were immediately affected by the security measures as the navy barred visitors from warships and installations and canceled scheduled Independence Day visits of warships to Pacific ports. Most army posts required a special pass for admission.

Meanwhile, formation of a large carrier task force on the west coast was well underway and the western air defense command maintained round-the-clock radar and fighter plane reconnaissance along the coast.

NO PASSPORTS FOR RUSSIANS

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said today applications for visas had been refused a Russian cultural delegation headed by Lt.-Gen. Alexander Gurovov to attend a "Slav congress" beginning today in Toronto.

"They play the kind of music we don't want to hear," the minister said amid cheers from all sides of the Commons.

Body Of Wife Found In Hunt For Waards

Provincial police today reported the recovery of the body of Mrs. George Waard, believed drowned with her husband last week-end in the Gulf of Georgia.

The body of the woman was discovered by two men near the wharf at Galiano Island Wednesday at 6, about four miles from where Waard's drifting fishboat was found Tuesday, police reported.

Capt. Waard, who was presumed also aboard the ill-fated fishing boat, was still missing police said.

The couple left their Galiano Island home last Sunday on a fishing trip. A day later two Indians discovered their craft adrift near Cable Bay, halfway up the east coast of the long, narrow island.

Police believed that either Capt. or Mrs. Waard fell overboard and both drowned while attempting to save the other. The fish poles were down and the lines were out when the boat was found, police said.

Capt. Waard several years ago sailed the junk Amoy across the North Pacific to Victoria in about 85 days. His wife was Chinese.

What Income Will You Need When You Retire?

When the time comes to retire you will still need an income... but how much will you need? If you have to reduce your standard of living too steeply, your declining years are unlikely to be years of comfort.

The wise thing is to review your probable needs while it is still possible to make provision. Life insurance can be arranged to provide as much guaranteed monthly income as you consider necessary.

Individual needs differ — some men must provide their entire retirement income from their private savings — others need only to supplement existing retirement benefits. Manufacturers Life representatives are trained to help you plan the income required in your particular case.

Alert When Plane Flies Near U.S. Base In Japan

ITAZUKE AIR BASE, Japan (BUP)—An unidentified plane tonight (Wednesday) flew near this U.S. air base for the American aerial support of South Korea, but disappeared when U.S. fighters swarmed aloft.

Air raid sirens wailed their spine-chilling alert in Japan for the first time since 1945 at 10:05 p.m. The all-clear sounded at 10:55 p.m.

The official count of the alert gave no positive answer whether airmen from the Communist side of the Korean battlefield had undertaken their first reprisal blow at U.S. installations in Japan.

It is said an "unidentified aircraft" was picked up, and fighters went up to intercept it. But it had disappeared, the account said. There was no explanation of a bright flash which appeared on the horizon a few minutes before the all-clear.

When the alarm sounded, the lights were doused and U.S. fighters took off like a flock of startled quail. The men not thrown into the counter-move hurried to shelters, and the field lay ghost-like and dead under a brilliant moon.

Occasionally an unseen plane roared overhead. They were American apparently, for no bombs came.

Meeting Their Obligations

OUR NEIGHBORS ON THE SOUTH side of the 49th parallel will have noted with appropriate satisfaction that both the British and Canadian Houses of Commons have enthusiastically endorsed the forthright and practical attitude of the United States toward the Korean "incident." Australia, also has followed the United Kingdom's example.

On behalf of Great Britain, one of the five permanent members of the Security Council, Prime Minister Attlee instructed the commander of the British fleet in Far Eastern waters to join American squadrons of fighting ships as may be deemed desirable. Although this Dominion is not a member of the Council, but a jealous guardian of the right of law, External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson won the instant approval of his colleagues in every quarter of the House of Commons when he expressed his belief yesterday that this country would support the Council's action because it represented a search for peace through collective action. To be sure, Canada's contribution to this process of restoring peace may not go far beyond vocal manifestation; at the same time, her moral influence will not be lightly regarded. Mr. Pearson's personal service to the United Nations is well understood and highly appreciated in official and unofficial quarters in the United States.

None but the woefully purblind partisan would quarrel with the statement of the Minister for External Affairs when he took it for granted that all members of the House of Commons would applaud and support what he termed the "high courage and firm statesmanship" which the action of the President of the United States so clearly reflected. He was answered by prolonged applause and much pounding of desks. No member of the United Nations living up to its pledge given at San Francisco could do otherwise without sacrificing its good name and honor.

The journalistic mouthpieces which serve the men of the Kremlin have lost no time in charging the United States with practically everything in the calendar of international crime. This was to be expected. Stalin and Company are still playing the familiar refrain which has accompanied the cold war from the beginning. The Korean variation has been suitably introduced into the score. To depart from the metaphor, what the Russian people will not be told is that the Politburo in Moscow has persistently blocked any attempt to establish an international police force to guard the peace—a provision to which Soviet delegates at San Francisco subscribed by their signatures on the Charter. But because individual members of the United Nations, led by the United States, are now doing their best to implement their respective pledges they are being called everything under the sun by the regimented Communist press.

Nobody will seriously suggest that the Russian people want war. Although they are not permitted to know what caused the current fighting in Korea, they will have it dimmed into their ears that it is all the fault of the "capitalist-monopolistic" countries whose sole object in this world is to crush the Soviet Union and the Russian people. So it goes.

James Allison Glen

THIRTY-NINE YEARS AGO THE RELatively young lawyer who was destined to become Speaker of the House of Commons three decades later left his native Scotland to seek fame and fortune in this young and thriving Dominion. He was James Allison Glen who died in his home in Ottawa on Monday evening at the age of 72.

If this brilliant son of a Dumbarton-shire boot and shoe merchant did not acquire that sufficiency of this world's goods that usually qualifies for the category of a fortune in the material sense, he achieved laudable fame in the profession of his choice and in the realm of public service. In the early 'twenties he became a prominent figure in school administration in his adopted province of Manitoba, later as a Progressive-Liberal for Marquette in the House of Commons from 1926 until his defeat in 1930 and, subsequently, a victor in the general elections of 1935, 1940 and 1945.

It was during the crucial war years that Mr. Glen presided over the deliberations of the national forum with such distinction, vacating that position to accept the portfolio of Mines and Resources in the reorganized King administration after the popular mandate of five years ago. The tax on his failing health, however, obliged him to relinquish his ministerial duties and take matters more easily for a time. His energy restored, his enthusiasm for his adopted land not one whit less aggressive, he was tendered and accepted the post of chairman of the Canadian section of the International Joint Commission two years ago. He was occupying that important position at the time of his death.

Mr. Glen was a model Speaker. Gifted as an orator himself, possessed of a keenly analytical mind, an abundance of logic and persuasiveness, an innate graciousness which robbed the official rebuke of its sting—these were among the attributes which won a warm place for him in the hearts of that legion of friends who likewise admired his manifold human qualities.

Preparations In Advance

IT WAS A GRIM COINCIDENCE THAT Victoria should be forming its standing "disaster committee" even as armed conflict broke out in Korea. The committees, to be organized in each Canadian city, are part of a Dominion-wide plan to have facilities and organizations ready for emergencies of every kind, including those not necessarily arising from war. It is obvious, of course, that modern warfare would call such arrangements into play and impose the severest tests on them. Civilian mobilization for air raid defence and other work during the last war gave proof of the value of this type of organization. Realization of its worth has led to peacetime planning of skeleton structures that could recruit and direct similar effort when needed. Months of preparation have now resulted in the naming of a local group to co-ordinate the work. A glance at only a few of the persons and organizations represented show the scope of the proposed program—the city health officer, bus and ambulance service, police and fire chiefs, the South Vancouver Island Rangers, air and boat services, nursing and first aid groups, and other similar bodies. Plans for various possible problems that might confront the committee will be drawn up and the corresponding action outlined. Much valuable time will thus be saved in the event of a catastrophe. Advance preparation will stand us in good stead.

Some Bits And Pieces

An old-timer is the one who can recall when a businessman would not think of wearing a shirt in public without a collar and tie.

The American problem is to transfer some of the boys from a Communist cell to a jail cell.

Gen. MacArthur prefers to remain in Japan rather than accept a $100,000 a year job. Some would regard such action as being very un-American.

If human beings continue to act natural, the country is going to need bigger and better psychopathic wards.

Researchers Find 'Witch Hunt' Poses Threat To Real Freedom

By NORA BELOFF, from Washington

AMERICAN freedom of speech, freedom of association and freedom of thought are being severely undermined by the current loyalty program, according to the members of a board of high-level legal and academic experts who have spent the past two years studying the repression of subversive activities.

The encroachments on civil liberties are judged to be considerably more serious than those practiced during the "witch hunts" after the First World War.

INTENSIVE RESEARCH

The board of investigation is sponsored by Cornell University, and financed by the Rockefeller Foundation. It has now completed intensive research on both the Federal and State level and will have its final report ready for publication this autumn. An investigation into the effects on freedom in America of eradicating Communists was first proposed by Chicago University during the controversy with the government on the loyalty check in universities. The Rockefeller Foundation approved the principle of an enquiry but preferred to finance it through Cornell University to get an unbiased view.

One member of the legal staff, Miss Eleanor Bontecou, went over to England in the course of this research, and was given a full picture of British procedure. She returned convinced that the British system gives far more effective protection to individuals than its American equivalent.

Although it is too soon to predict what the final report will contain, it is expected to carry a comparison with the British system with suggestions that certain British practices, notably those used for defending civil servants and introducing representatives of the civil service into loyalty hearings, should be applied here.

ASTONISHING SPREAD

The investigation has, I understand, shown an astonishing spread of loyalty boards, which now number several hundreds spread over the entire country here and containing persons often totally unqualified to distinguish between Communists and any other critics of the status quo. It has shown a complete absence of redress for people unfairly discharged from their jobs, a general acceptance of the principle of guilt by association incompatible with American legal practice and a growing nervousness, particularly in Washington itself, in conversation, choice of reading matter and choice of company.

The board will restrict itself to recommendations for improved administrative practices which it believes can materially improve the loyalty program which in the view of one member "has run amok."

Under Way

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP from Washington

THE invasion of Southern Korea is an event like Hitler's re-occupation of the Rhineland. It is a moment in history on which the whole world will surely look back and say, "Then, at that instant, in that decision, was when they made their fatal mistake." It only remains to be seen whether "they," who are thus to be condemned, will turn out to be the masters of the Kremlin, or the leaders of the United States.

This deliberate act of aggression against a nation under American protection means, first of all, that everyone has been horribly mistaken, both about the Kremlin's timetable of conquest, and about the progress of Soviet re-armament. In both these ways, the attack on Korea is infinitely more disturbing than the explosion of the Russian bomb last September.

BUT the attack on South Korea also has another, even grimmer meaning, which the bomb explosion did not have. It means, in fact, that the Kremlin has already embarked upon a great campaign of Hitlerite tactics of terror, with the ultimate object of bringing all of Europe and Asia into the Soviet empire. And it also means that if we do not wish the Kremlin to win this gigantic victory, we must be prepared NOW to counter this Soviet terror campaign with utmost firmness.

At this fearful moment in Washington, it has at least been encouraging to see how much progress towards realism has been made, since the time when the response to the Soviet atomic bomb explosion was a sickening flood of soothing syrup from every American leader.

THIS time, there has at least been no attempt, by any of the responsible policy makers, to pretend that what has happened is trivial or unimportant. If the Soviets bring off the maneuver which they planned so well and so secretly, it is generally acknowledged that the world situation will be rendered almost unmanageable.

The reason for this is simple. In the Far East (where bandwagon psychology is one of the strongest factors in politics) every leader, of every political color, in every country, will note what has happened and make his arrangements accordingly. Quirino in the Philippines, Yoshida in Japan, Soekarno and Hatta in Indonesia, the members of the Burmese government and the leaders of the Bao Dai faction in Indo-China who are now fighting Communists in those two countries—every one of them will be looking for a way to climb aboard the bandwagon.

WHILE the Far East will thus be transformed into a sort of rancid mush, Western Europe will not be far behind. As has been repeatedly emphasized in this column, the great danger in Europe is that dramatic demonstrations of Soviet strength and Western weakness will drive the undecided Europeans to a mood of appeasement and surrender. The attack on Southern Korea is intended to be precisely such a demonstration.

Finally, if this Korean demonstration is allowed to succeed, it will soon be followed by others, even more menacing and grave, in other vulnerable areas of the world. The fear that will be engendered by a Kremlin triumph in Korea will in turn make it immeasurably more difficult to meet these new challenges. While our potential allies tremble and hold back, while our own governments remain paralyzed by indecision, Berlin and Yugoslavia, Iran and Indo-China, will go the way of Korea. In the end, with loud self-pitying whimpers, the whole western world will collapse into ruin and destruction. Or, when it is too late, there will be war.

THIS is no irresponsible jeremiad. This is the assessment of the stakes in play by the men in the American government who know best the world situation, and are most competent to calculate future developments.

The present crisis would never have arisen if it had not been for the sharp change in American policy that was initiated by President Truman in November, 1948, that was subsequently strengthened by Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, and that has been loudly approved by the vast majority of Republicans. American re-armament, so well begun by the late James V. Forrestal, was idiotically transformed into American disarmament. Hence the Kremlin has ventured to attack.

THERE is no use, however, engaging in recriminations about the past. What is important now is the present. Let those who wish to advocate surrender, now come out and say so plainly, instead of talking about economy, or neutrality, or the unimportance of Korea. Meanwhile, if the rest of us are absolutely determined, we can still prove that the mistake about Korea was made in Moscow, and not in Washington.

RAYON FOR BRITAIN'S MEN

Toronto Globe and Mail—A London dispatch says that British textile firms are going to turn to the manufacture of rayon for men's suits. For the men of Britain this will be both a revolution and a relief. Their devotion to worsted and broadcloth, usually in sombre shades, is as well known as their devotion to cricket.

The prospect of British men stepping out in rayon coats and trousers is a sign of emancipation. It is also good business for the manufacturers.

If rayon can mean both greater comfort for British men and more dollars for the London treasury, it will be a blessing all round.

NO IMPROVEMENT?

Among the outstanding happenings of the last week or two must be noted the speech at Philadelphia before 742 seniors of the University there delivered by Mr. David Lawrence in which he stated that: "Men have proved they can use their fists but have not proved they can use their heads." He said: "All the ingenuity of man today is focused on the making of destructive engines, none on the moral needs for constructive peace."

In fact, Mr. Lawrence almost implied that when man first descended from the trees three or four million years ago his effort to stand upright and free his hands, was for purposes of acquisition and to form a fist with which to dominate his weaker brother. And according to this authority that purpose still persists.

However that may be we here in America are forced to admit Mr. Lawrence has something there when we realize that because of a total lack of moral intent and truly constructive living principles we have 260 competitive religious factions all seeking to dominate, all acquisitive, and all with fists. And besides, our population of mental deficits is steadily increasing. We can not substantiate the claim that the animal ancestors from whom man had his origin have been succeeded by a species of greater moral ambitions or higher living purposes.

A Loss To The United Nations

From The New York Times

THE UNITED NATIONS lost one of its most brilliant and effective servants when Sir Alexander Cadogan, Britain's representative to the Security Council, sailed for home. That great venture in world co-operation is in a parlous state, and if Sir Alexander has any regrets today it must be that the hopes and plans that he shared and worked so hard to fulfill are in danger of foundering on the rocks of Soviet intransigence and sabotage. It has been no mean effort of statesmanship, however, that the U.N. should have been kept going and that the policies and ideals of our democratic West should have been upheld tenaciously and honestly by men like Sir Alexander Cadogan.

The history of our times could almost be written in terms of the places he has been and the posts he has held—the League of Nations and the United Nations, the peace negotiations of both World Wars, Turkey, China, more than 20 years in high positions at the Foreign Office ending in the highest post of all, Permanent Under Secretary. It was from that position that he came to the U.N. early in 1946, having previously taken part in the conference on the Atlantic Charter (of which he was one of the chief architects), Dumbarton Oaks, San Francisco and elsewhere. The citation for the degree of Doctor of Laws that Princeton gave Sir Alexander a few weeks ago called him "Dean of the Diplomatic Corps of the United Nations." It truly said that "he leaves behind him a record of masterly political achievement."

The corps also—and it is by no means a trivial fact—loses a charming and cultured friend. Fortunately for the world organization and for Britain, he is being succeeded by one of England's outstanding young statesmen—Sir Gladwyn Jebb, who has taken part in U.N. affairs from the beginning and first made a name for himself as Secretary General of the Preparatory Assembly of the U.N. in London five years ago. Sir Gladwyn is assured of a hearty welcome. He has a difficult task ahead in the crucial September meeting of the General Assembly, one made the harder for him by the knowledge that he succeeds so eminent a representative as Sir Alexander Cadogan.

Proper Treatment Saves Lives

From Health News Service

ARTIFICIAL respiration has been known to be successful on an apparently drowned person who had been under water for as long as half an hour, says an editorial in the current issue of Health, official magazine of the Health League of Canada.

The editorial stresses the importance of widespread knowledge of artificial respiration, and comments that in this connection "apparently people forget very easily."

DEATHS PREVENTED

It is emphasized that "some years ago Health called attention to the supreme importance of a widespread knowledge of artificial respiration if death by drowning is to be prevented. Nine hundred deaths in a single year is a tragic fact because drowning is unnecessary." Some of these deaths might have been prevented if people generally had known what to do when a person appeared to be drowned.

Properly applied artificial respiration might save some lives this summer.

Artificial respiration should be started immediately the apparently drowned person is taken from the water. It should be kept up continuously for a minimum of four hours unless the victim had recovered consciousness or rigor mortis had set in.

"That these facts have been forgotten," says Health, "is shown by the fact that from time to time reports appear in the newspapers to the effect that artificial respiration has been discontinued in 20 minutes or half an hour in cases in which resuscitation may have been possible. This applies to both drowning and electrical shock."

"The possibility of a laryngeal spasm which, unless released, might render artificial respiration ineffective, should be stressed," Health says. "Many people who drown don't drown but suffocate. These are shown at autopsy to have no water in their lungs. It is therefore important to call attention to the need for seeing that the air passages are clear and the tongue held out during artificial respiration."

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press News Analyst

BRITAIN'S quick action in offering the United States powerful naval support in the Korean crisis vastly strengthens the hand of democracy in dealing with this fresh Communist aggression.

Whether the U.S. actually needs this extra naval aid is of far less importance than the fact that we have here another striking exhibition of solidarity between these two great world powers. That's a potent warning against further Red aggression.

Not all the democracies have been so quick to stand up and be counted. Many have been proceeding more cautiously, with a weather eye on Moscow.

Self-preservation is a natural impulse, but this is a crisis in which outspoken unity among the democracies is badly needed. It's no time to hedge.

The Communist world, headed by Russia, is in process of assaying the position of figuring out whether the western powers mean business or are just blustering. Moscow's first reactions, as displayed in editorial comment, charged aggression but were comparatively mild. The bolsheviks are feeling their way.

Meantime the Northern Korean armed forces continue their attack on the South Korean republic, and the defenders have lost their capital, Seoul, along with some other key points. American planes are in action against the aggressors.

President Truman has warned that "we face a serious situation." However, he expressed the hope that his decision to use American force will bring peace to the world ultimately.

I believe that hope is well founded. We may have to fight another world war if things go badly—but it is not true that such a war is inevitable.

A firm stand by democracy is likely to discourage Communist aggression. A display of weakness by democracy at this crucial juncture would be inviting further aggressions like that now directed at Korea, with the certainty that another world war would have to be fought.

EIGHTY YEARS YOUNG

Madame Rose Laird, an American professor in beauty.

Life begins at 50—and not long ago I had five women on television in the States, and the youngest was 82. She followed my directions so completely that I had to ask her the reason. "I've never used make-up," she said, "and my husband was a missionary. He's 83 but I've noticed him looking at the young girls lately so I thought I'd better smarten myself up."

TEST OF THE TIMES

Winnipeg Free Press—The test of these times has been well defined by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The United States, she told students at Brandeis University, must find "the courage to live in uncertainty." This is the more true because it seems impossible on any realistic appraisal of the forces at work in the world to predict an early end of the struggle between Eastern totalitarianism and Western democracy and it therefore follows that people must reconcile themselves for a long time to life "in the shadow of war."

Clearly the first requisite for survival is faith in ourselves and in our own purposes.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"EVERYBODY knows," said the Elevator Man, "about the kid who doesn't like ice cream because once he ate too much of it and got sick. It's natural for us to fight shy of things that harm us, even when they're apparently good things like ice cream or chocolate cake. When they're definitely bad things the principle applies even more so. People who have bumped into a hornet's nest don't need a warning sign on the next one. A fellow who returned to his childhood home 30 years after he left it found he automatically ducked when he passed the kitchen window, where he used to bump his head on a pump handle. Some people claim a long memory for insults. It's even easier to remember a rap on the noggin. Going down!"

"I see," said the Elevator Man, "that we're using that principle on the sea lions off the B.C. coast. The animals do a lot of harm to the fisheries and have to be kept down. A government boat has just returned after shooting nearly 2,000 of them. But they say the idea isn't so much to try to kill them all as to teach them to stay away from the fishermen's nets. They want to make them 'gun shy,' so they won't come round too close. Fair enough. But what an ironic smile must have crossed the face of all the John Does who read that news item. The Little Man of every country can feel much in common with the sea lion. For if periodic slaughters over the past 40 years haven't made him gun-shy, I don't know what will. Main floor!"

"He's the one," said the Elevator Man, "who has no reason to want war. He's the one who's been bumped on the head till he's groggy. He's seen his family and his neighbors shot till he knows exactly what gunfire means. He should have learned to keep away from it, but he hasn't. Because there's just one thing he hates to lose worse than his life, and that's his freedom."

THE HOME GARDEN

Knowledge Of Sprays Aids In Pest Control

By JACK G. BEASTALL

Generally, folks who constantly look for trouble are not very popular, but with gardeners it is a trait which is most desirable.

As the season advances, plants make a luxuriant, rapid growth which is tender, succulent and very appealing to the many insects which have been waiting for just such conditions.

With the recent discoveries along the line of pest control, it is not so necessary for the home gardener to be familiar with the actual spray materials as to be able to diagnose the case accurately and be able to ask for the general type of spray needed.

THREE TYPES OF SPRAY

There are three distinct classes of sprays:

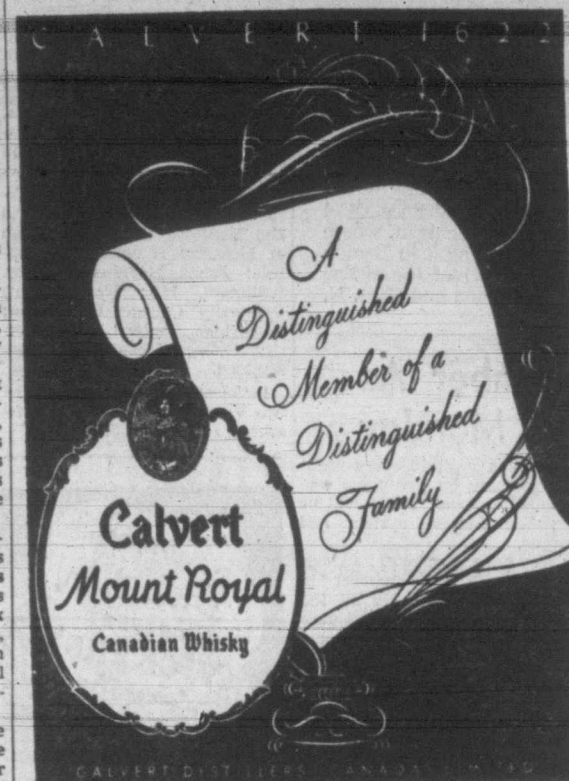

1. Contact insecticide—to destroy the sucking insects which suck the juices from the plants, and includes aphids and mealy bugs.

2. Stomach poison—to combat such pests as cutworms, caterpillars, potato and squash bugs, those which actually eat portions of the plants. Stomach poisons are also mixed into various baits which are scattered about the soil in infested areas.

3. Fungicide—to control various rots, molds and leaf spots which are not caused by insects but by the spreading of spores of the fungi. Sulphur, Bordeaux mixture, copper in various forms, mercurial solutions, potassium permanganate and Semesan, all are effective in halting and preventing fungous damage.

There are products on the market known as "complete sprays" which contain one or more of the materials mentioned and which effectively control both insect and fungous troubles.

However, the home gardener must do his part. He must dust or spray promptly at the first indication of trouble, making sure that all parts of the plant are covered, with special attention to the undersides of the leaves, and continue long enough to destroy insects that may hatch from eggs.

Jaywalkers Fined

Four persons caught jaywalking on Broad Street this week paid $1 fines each in city police court today. It is illegal to jaywalk anywhere within the downtown area bordered by the following streets: Herald, Government, Fort and Douglas.

Private Industry Slow With TV

Not In Great Hurry To Set Up Stations McCann Tells Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister McCann told the Commons Wednesday that private industry has "not been in too great a hurry" to establish television stations in Canada.

Replying to charges by Donald Fleming (P.C., Toronto-Eglinton) that the government has been dilatory in announcing a television policy and in carrying it out, Dr. McCann said Canada has benefited by proceeding slowly.

To Mr. Fleming's statement that Canada would have had television long ago had private stations been allowed to enter the field, Dr. McCann replied:

"Private industry has not been in too great a hurry to get into this business... it costs approximately $500,000 to set up a station and you must be prepared to take a loss of $500,000 before commercial advertising will place you on an earning basis.

"We have guarded the Canadian people against the granting of licenses to people who are not prepared to go ahead."

A. L. Smith (P.C., Calgary West) drew no comment from the minister when he said he could not see why anyone who wanted to lose $500,000 in television development was not allowed to go ahead.

The discussion occurred as the chamber-studied the estimates of the revenue department, which reports to Parliament for the publicly-owned CBC.

Dr. McCann said that in the last two years about $50,000,000 had been spent in the United States on experimental television work. Canada now was able "to start in with no cost at all and take advantage of the advances that have been made."

VOTE $650,000

Members approved a $650,000 advance to the CBC to cover its cash deficit for the current fiscal year. Dr. McCann said the Royal Commission on Arts and Sciences is to report to the government this fall and probably will recommend ways of financing CBC operations in the future.

In a study of transport department estimates, members voted down 53 to 32 an opposition motion that in effect would have eliminated the Board of Transport Commissioners. The motion, moved by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, charged the board with incompetence in the handling of freight-rate increases. Opposition members urged that the freight-rate burden be equalized across the country.

Canada gave the relief in the form of food, clothing and vehicles in joining with the U.S. and Britain to help out nine or 10 war-devastated lands.

Main deficits will show up in southern Europe, particularly Italy where a $28,000,000 debt is being largely written off.

Lost Plane Furnishing Identified

This blanket dashed hopes of searchers that any of the 58 persons aboard a missing Northwest Airlines DC-4 were still alive. It was found in Lake Michigan, where the plane was last heard from. Examining it in Benton Harbor, Mich., are Paul Benscoter (left) of the airline company, and two rescuers, James Bryson and Capt. N. Fulford. (NEA photo.)

Expect Record Number As Playgrounds Open Monday

Ten supervised playgrounds in Victoria which drew an attendance of 34,000 children last summer will be open for vacation business Monday with all signs pointing to a greater record this year.

A trained staff of 30 men and women, who this week are attending a special playground school, will be on hand from Monday until the end of August supervising and directing operations in the city parks.

"Last year was a record high, but we look for even greater attendance this year, particularly because of the new feature at Beacon Hill Park," said Gordon Hartley, chief supervisor. To attract the teenagers Beacon Hill will remain open under supervision until 10 every night with dancing on the green and organized sports. There will be a public address system and records.

"We have employed a Mrs. Hudson who will instruct in square dancing and do all the calls," said Mr. Hartley. "Square dancing on the green has become popular in the States."

Swimming instruction will be given every Tuesday morning at 9 at Crystal Garden for the girls and every Friday morning for the boys, starting July 4.

Free tennis instruction will be given each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 2 in Stadacona Park, starting July 11.

The 10 supervised parks opening Monday are: Beacon Hill, Central, James Bay, Burnside, Oaklands, Hollywood, Stadacona, Todd, Victoria West and Elliot Street playlot.

Speed Limit Off In School Zones

For the next two months and more motorists won't have to slow down to 15 miles an hour when passing through school zones. As of today, with students out for the summer holiday period, the general 30-mile-an-hour speed limit will be the order in these areas.

"But don't forget the 20-mile-an-hour special zones and the playgrounds where children are at play," police remind motorists.

Fellowships awarded included two Vancouver men, W. B. Casselman and P. Fitz-James.

Czechs Resign

PRAGUE (AP)—Czechoslovakia has withdrawn from the Interparliamentary Union, contending it is a tool of "Anglo-American imperialist policy." The union, with headquarters in

Police Blotters Still Recording Long List Of Motoring Accidents

Vehicle crashes continue to take up a large share of the space on the police blotters of Greater Victoria.

A round-up on accident toll figures throughout the area showed that there have been 635 reportable accidents so far this year.

Other featured facts in the six-month accident picture are:

Two persons have been killed. Eighty-eight persons have been injured, with injuries ranging from serious bone and skull fractures to minor cuts and bruises. Police do not tabulate the exact damage done to cars in these crashes, but it is likely that the damage bill for this year's six-month period would amount to a staggering total.

Rarely a week goes by without two, three or more vehicles being in the larger repair shops in the city getting treatment for minor and extensive damage. Day to day reports on the police blotters show a few estimates of damage to two cars in a crack-up where damage runs into four figures. There are a lot ranging between $100 to $500. Those drivers who appear before the magistrate are there because police investigators, from markings on the scene, stories

Drivers Without Licenses Menace

Unlicensed and untested drivers are a menace to qualified motorists, Claude L. Harrison, city prosecutor, said in city police court Wednesday.

He expressed this view when another person was brought before Magistrate H. C. Hall for failing to have a current year's Driver's license. Mr. Harrison said it was extraordinary the number of persons without licenses who were involved in accidents.

George Griffiths, discharged recently from the R.C.N., pleaded guilty. Griffiths was fined $35, which is $10 above the minimum penalty, after he told Magistrate Hall he previously had not been a holder of a license.

of both drivers and observations by independent witnesses, believe recklessness or carelessness was the cause.

This degree of blame is not present in a great many accidents and that's the reason why officers do not take the cases to court.

There have been 69 convictions for careless driving in Victoria this year, 44 in Saanich, eight in Oak Bay and six in Esquimalt.

Driving while intoxicated cases have resulted in a dozen convictions.

Saanich continues to be the area where most drivers are caught by police for exceeding speed limits. There have been 120 speeders caught by Saanich patrolling officers. The city has 85 speeding convictions, Oak Bay 36 and Esquimalt 26.

Victoria continues to be the heavy accident rate area. Constable Stanley Cornish has 486 written reports on record. The Saanich total is 107, Oak Bay's 22 and Esquimalt's 20.

THREE BUILDINGS WERE NUCLEUS

Phone Rate Boost Queried By M.P.

OTTAWA (CP)—In Commons Wednesday Howard Green (P.C.-Vancouver-Quadra) protested against the way the Transport Board had handled an application of the British Columbia Telephone Company for higher rates, which was recently granted in part.

"I don't believe the board gave the people of British Columbia a fair run for their money," he said.

TAR MACHINE FIRE

No damage was done in a small fire in a tar machine at the rear of the Phoenix Brewery Co. Ltd., 1921 Government Street, Tuesday night, city firemen reported.

On June 28, 1865, an order-in-council was passed in England authorizing establishment of a Royal Navy dockyard here.

Seven years earlier three buildings had been erected to house British sailors taking part in the Crimean War. These formed the nucleus of the present establishment.

Two of the historic buildings were demolished a few years ago, and it has been suggested that the site be preserved.

On Nov. 8, 1910, the H.M.C.S. Rainbow arrived at Esquimalt after a "trip" around the Horn. She was the first Canadian naval ship on this coast.

A day later, on Nov. 9, the dockyard became Canadian Navy property.

A Victorian, Maj. F. W. Longstaff, outlined the story of the famous base in his book, published in 1941, "Esquimalt Naval Base—The History of Its Work and Its Defences."

Might Lose To Substitutes

PORTLAND (AP)—The lumber industry was told here it was neglecting product improvement and might lose out to substitutes.

J. B. Grantham of the Oregon State College school of forestry told the International Forest Research Society that only a few class A mills are aware of this.

Progressive lumber manufacturers, he said, may spend a half a cent of every sales dollar on product improvement. At the same time, a plaster board manufacturer may spend up to 10 cents per sales dollar on development work and sales improvement.

He said the West Coast Lumbermen's Association is doing an increasingly good job of trade promotion.

F. W. Guernsey, engineer for Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, Vancouver, told the researchers that overcutting of virgin forests makes full utilization imperative. There is a world shortage of wood and pulp products, he said.

Jimmy Demaret Leads Movement Against Styrmie Rule In P.G.A.

By OSCAR ERALEY
COLUMBUS, O. (UP) — Disgusted Jimmy Demaret today led a mass movement against the styrmie rule used in the P.G.A. golf tournament following the annual championship in which, too often, blind luck registered against better golfers.

In the finals, Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., bested Henry Williams of Spokane, Pa., in a battle of a couple of guys named Joe. Actually, neither man shot the type of golf which should be called the creme de la creme of the professional game.

The absence of the styrmie rule could, and probably would, have made a terrific difference in the outcome of numerous matches leading up to the finals.

Demaret, at 40, was tired and disgusted when he was kayoed by Harper—the eventual champion—in the semifinals.

TOO MUCH GOLF
"This is just too much golf in one week," said the colorful Jimmy as he threatened, at first,

West Heat In Senior B Gain

West Heat closed to within a half game of Yarrows and third place in the Senior B Men's Softball League last night by defeating the shipbuilders, 11 to 3.

Kaye hurled two-hit ball for the winners.

Tuesday night Garrison handed Navy its first defeat of the season, tripping the sailors, 8 to 6. Army, Navy and Air Force Vets downed Hudson Lumber, 15 to 9.

Tonight Yarrows will meet Navy at Upper Central at 6:30.

In the Senior C League, Post Office scored its eighth win in nine starts with a 14 to 4 victory over Standard Furniture and Naval Reserve defeated Navy, 9 to 6.

Reds Drop Moose From First Place In Women's Loop

The Women's Senior Softball League standings were again scrambled last night as Red's Service knocked off Moose, 9 to 3.

The victory put Red's back in a first-place tie with North Saanich and dropped Moose, the former leaders, into third.

Mary Grund survived a shaky start in the first two innings to post the mound triumph. She gave up all three runs in the second frame and then blanked Moose with one hit the rest of the way.

Jocelyn Richmond suffered the loss, allowing eight hits but issuing 11 bases on balls.

Admirals will meet Alisorts at Lower Central tonight at 6:30.

U.S. HAS DAVIS CUP HEADACHE

Play Of Americans In European Tournaments Worries Officials

NEW YORK (UP) — Grass courts play in Europe and England has shown clearly that the United States has no fine young tennis stars coming up, and that the Davis Cup is in real danger in 1950.

Even Ted Schroeder may not be able to save the big silver trophy from a trip to Australia this year. Schroeder never has lost an Aussie in cup play, and he may continue his mastery this year in two singles matches. But American tennis officials can't be confident that the U.S. will win any of the other matches.

Several Americans have been playing in European and English tournaments, but have had much trouble with various opponents.

Bill Sidwell of Australia beat Vic Seixas of the U.S. and Eric Sturgess of South Africa topped Fred Kovalevsky of Detroit in quarter-final play in the Kest tournament and then Jack Bromwich of Australia ousted Gardner Mulloy of America in the semifinals. In the London championships, the Aussie ace, Frank Sedgman, beat Seixas despite the handicap of a bad wrist, and Bromwich defeated two Americans, Tony Trabert and Art Larsen.

TALBERT UNCERTAIN
Australia seems sure to be the challenging nation again, and this parade of Aussie victories over Americans does not help the complexion of U.S. Lawn Tennis Association heads. Of course, these are early-season affairs, and Schroeder and Bill Talbert, the two top Americans, have not been involved, but the threat is plain. Talbert, 31, and a diabetic, is one of the most fragile of first-rank tennis players, and his stamina is limited. If he plays singles, he cannot play doubles, and he and Mulloy are America's best team.

Even so, the Aussies beat them last year.

At this writing, the Davis Cup winner in 1950 appears to be dependent upon Sedgman's condition and form at challenge round time in late August. If he is in good shape and in the form he showed in America at that time a year ago, Australia will be favored to retain the trophy and hold it for several years.

FOOTBALLER JOCK DODDS DRAWS LIFE SUSPENSION

LONDON (Reuter)—One of Britain's star soccer players has been barred from ever playing again professionally for his own country because he acted as agent for a South American club which lured fellow players from Britain with offers of astronomical salaries.

Jock Dodds, a former Scottish international centre forward, has been expelled from the Football League because he was "go-between" for the Millionaires Football Club in Bogota, Colombia, which recently engaged four British stars.

Many Candidates For 20-Game Club

Rabbit ball or no, the 20-victory club for pitchers is headed for a big year.

Johnny Sain of Boston Braves, Bob Lemon of Cleveland and Art Houtteman of Detroit hit the 10-triumph mark yesterday, and the season won't be half over until July 9.

Eight more are one step back. Another dozen still have a chance to crash the exclusive lodge.

Now 10 victories in June are no guarantee of 20 come October. But it's a good bet. Only seven made it last year, five in the American and two in the National.

Sain, staging the "comeback of the year" for the Boston Braves, made number 10 a big one. He knocked Philadelphia Phillies out of first place in the National League with his 3 to 1 decision, spacing eight hits.

Brooklyn, a 5 to 3 winner over New York, slid back into the lead when the Phillies bowed.

Sain flopped last season when he dipped to a 10-17 record. Now he is ahead of his 1948 percentage-winning pace. That year he won 24 games.

HOME RUN WINS

Preacher Roe, a 20-game candidate, won his ninth for Brooklyn on Gene Hermanski's homer that broke a 3 to 3 seven-inning tie.

Carl Furillo, hit on the head by a Sheldon Jones pitch in the eighth inning, hammered a two-run homer and single in earlier appearances. Furillo suffered no serious injury.

Chicago massacred St. Louis Cardinals, 15 to 3, the Cubs' biggest total of the season. Roy Smalley was high man for the Cubs with his 12th homer, a triple, double and single in five trips.

Pittsburgh edged Cincinnati, 6 to 5.

Houtteman, Detroit's fine 22-year-old right-hander, actually was the first major leaguer to win his 10th. He did it in the afternoon, whipping Chicago, 6 to 2. Both Sain and Lemon joined him at night.

Detroit needed the victory to protect a 4½-game American League edge over New York Yankees. Hoot Evers' 420-foot inside-the-park homer, with a man on, broke a 1 to 1 tie. Don Kolloway added two more in the sixth with a homer.

Cleveland ran up a whopping,

Sailors Scare Jokers; Bays Whip Clubmen

Don't take the Navy box lacrosse club too lightly from now on.

The sailors gave league-leading Jokers of the city Senior B League a rough time last night before going down to their 12th straight defeat, 9 to 6.

Spotting the Jokers a 7 to 0 halftime lead, the tars surprised most everyone in the arena by bouncing back in the second half with six goals to Jokers two. However, the first-half deficit was too much to overcome though Jokers were the worried ones when the game was over.

Walt Doherty scored four of Navy's goals.

Meanwhile Foul Bay stayed within two points of the leaders by stopping Tillicums, 8 to 4, in a game that saw Foul Bay coach Ed McKim get the gate for disputing the referees' decision on a goal by Art Green that was disallowed.

The disputed marker was ruled to have entered the net after the whistle.

Tom Halbert took Foul Bay scoring honors with three goals while Jack Thompson notched a pair.

Next league games will take place Monday, with Jokers meeting Tillicums and Navy clashing with Foul Bay.

Ladies Put Record Crowd In Ball Park

6,000 See A's Beaten; Spokane Here Tonight

By PETE SALLAWAY

It took the women to put the largest crowd of season into the ball park last night. With the fair sex as guests of the Victoria club, close to 6,000 spectators jammed the grandstand and bleachers and overflowed on to the field to watch the Athletics drop a 9 to 2 decision to the W.L. leading Tacoma Tigers. The paid attendance was 2,800.

As often happens with a large crowd on hand it wasn't much of a game. The Athletics had one of their bad nights in the field with five errors giving up as many unearned runs. Third sacker Joe Kronberg had a particularly rough evening with three bobbles charged against him.

Athletics took the series two games to one. Spokane Indians are in town to open a four-game stand tonight. Edo Vanni, former Victoria outfielder who drew a suspension and fine and was later cut loose by the A's, will be in the Spokane line-up. Right hander Joe Mishasek is the likely starter for the Athletics.

PLAYERS TOSSED

Most of the excitement for the fans last night was contributed by plate umpire Pearson. In the third inning he tossed Victoria first sacker Jim Wert out of the game for throwing his bat in protest against a called strike. A's had to move Marty Krug from the outfield to take over at first while Don Alfano replaced Krug. In the eighth Pearson chased catcher Bill Sheets off the Tacoma bench for uncomplimentary remarks. Pearson and his partner Jacobs had a tough night with Tacoma manager Jim Brillheart squawking on several close calls.

Getting the win for Tacoma was southpaw Bob Kerrigan and it was his 13th of the season. Although touched for nine hits Kerrigan was in little trouble. It

Mrs. Todd Reaches P.N. Quarterfinals

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pat Lesser, sweet 16 and a sweet golfer, tees off today in a quarterfinal Pacific Northwest Golf Association match against medalist Grace DeMoss of Corvallis, Ore.

The Seattle lass, youngest competitor by far in the women's tournament, will be meeting her toughest opposition. Miss DeMoss, a 22-year-old Oregon State College co-ed, set a course record with a 71 in Monday's qualifying round and was three strokes under women's par when she completed her second-round match yesterday against Winnifred Evans of Vancouver, B.C.

Pat drubbed Mrs. Omar Anderson of Dundee, Ore., 3 and 1 yesterday.

In the other bracket Mrs. Margaret Todd, Victoria, won a close match from Mrs. William Knox, Vancouver, 1 up and today met Mrs. Mildred Renwick, Vancouver, who defeated Mrs. K. Kendall, Everett, by a similar margin.

CHAMPION BEATEN

In the men's division of the 49th annual tourney, both the medalist and the defending champion yesterday bowed out of the title chase.

Defending champion Bruce McCormick of Los Angeles was whipped 3 and 1 by Ed Draper of Seattle. Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver, B.C., who had the best qualifying rounds, fell 2 and 1 to fellow townsman Hans Swinton.

Favorite at this stage of the game is 19-year-old Al Mengert of Spokane, Wash. Mengert, twice U.S. junior champion, beat Guy Owen of Cut Bank, Mont., 4 and 2 yesterday and today battled Doug Bajus, one of four Vancouverites still in the title chase.

Kayo Win For Veteran Jack

INDIANAPOLIS (CP)—Beau Jack, former lightweight champion, stopped 22-year-old Ronnie Harper of Detroit Wednesday night in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round bout.

The former shoe shine boy had an edge of 5½ pounds at 141, plus a lot of experience. The fight was stopped at 2:15 of the fifth.

Fletcher's Win As Forbes Blanks Nobles

Norm Forbes blanked Noble's Contractors, 4 to 0, last night to enable Fletcher's Men's Wear to tighten their grip on first place in senior division of the Minor Baseball Association.

Frank Graham of Nobles was the victim of poor support by his mates, who erred four times. He struck out 11 and walked two.

Beacon-Taxi whipped Sidney, 10 to 5, in the league's other game.

TIREMEN WIN

Cabbies Mound Staff Gives Jones Worries

Manager Lloyd Jones of Bluebird Cabs had to use the "rest" of his mound staff last night and Douglas Tire teed off on the mediocre hurling for 10 hits and coasted to a 6 to 1 win, in a senior "A" softball game at Central Park.

The Cabbies always seem to have an off night whenever they haven't got their ace chucker, Charlie McKay, on the hill and last night was no exception.

Al Majorki opened the game for Bluebirds but wasn't around after the second inning as the tiremen came out of their recent batting slump to rap out five hits and four runs, featured by a home run from the bat of Ken Gunter.

Cabbies' lone marker came in the initial canto when the league-leading stickler, Ben Ethier, singled home Cliff McKay.

Young Bob Lyons came on to pitch in the third inning for the losers and he scraped through the remaining six innings though leaving runners stranded in every inning.

Nominated to do the heavy work for Douglas Tire, Gunter was at his best. He struck out 10 and walked two.

Only two of the tiremen, Al Arnold and Vic Dale, failed to pick up a safety in the game. For Dale it was the fifth game in a row that he has gone hitless. This is the worst slump the power hitter of the league leaders has had in his long career.

The win moved the tiremen a full three games ahead of the second-place Chinese Students.

The up-and-coming B.C. Forest Products could move into a second-place tie with Students, if they can knock over Stan Ten-

Canada Names Fourth Member Cup Net Squad

George Robinson Joins Team For International Play

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association completed its 1935 Davis Cup team with the selection of George Robinson of Montreal, a recognized doubles star.

Canada's four-man representation against Australia in the first-round American zone tie here July 14-16 will be made up of Robinson and two other Montrealers—Henri Rochon and Brendan Macken—and the young Vancouver star Lorge, Main.

The three already chosen are competing now in tournaments in the United States. The full team will gather in Montreal for training.

Robinson, a newcomer to international competition, is a ranking doubles competitor. He teamed up with Rochon to win both the Ontario and Quebec provincial doubles championships last year and has figured as a winner in lesser tournaments.

The C.L.T.A. selection committee delayed naming the fourth man to Canada's team until the Vancouver city championships—with a host of west coast players participating—were concluded earlier this week.

North Downs South As Times' Nines Cavort

Every once in a while a request comes in to this office for publicity on a game of sorts in which no one but the participants are interested.

And when the Times North team met the Times South team in, as the report states, "a hardball game" the other night, such was the case.

However, from all accounts, this game was a thriller from the word go.

It ended in most spectacular fashion with Gene "Fireball" Phillon crashing out a 350-foot home run with one aboard to give the North team a 9 to 5 victory. Elmer "Knuckleball" Whitten was the losing pitcher.

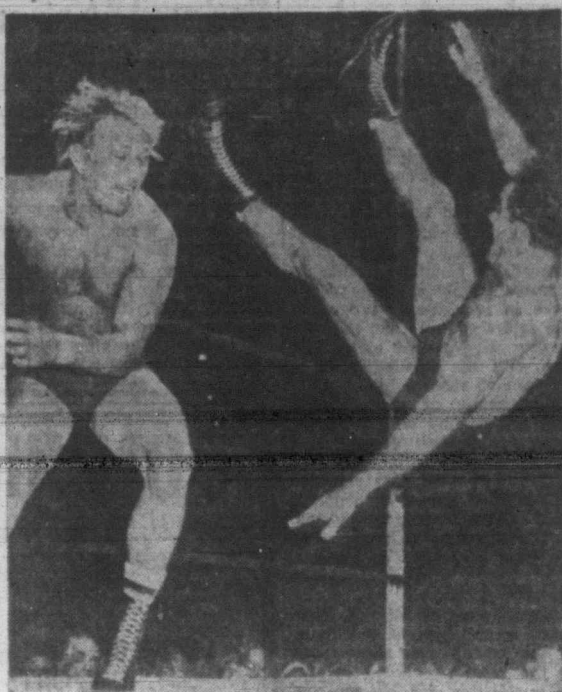

John Heryet was the South's big gun at the plate, crashing out two triples.

Tuesday Jamieson won the Logana Rose Bowl. Second was Bds. W. R. Chandler, Westminster Rgt., who posted a score of 100.

The St. Charles Challenge Shield was won by the 5th-75th Regiment's Rifle Association. They had a total score of 325 points made up of individual scores in the Westminster match shot off in the morning. Second was the team from H.Q. B.C. area.

The Night Was Clear There Were No Stars

By BILL WALKER

VANCOUVER—On the Shamrocks they have a player rating system. After each game the club executive picks the three outstanding player-performers of the evening and they receive "bonus" points.

After last night's game here coach Arnold Ferguson said: "The executive has the job of picking three stars tonight. First of all there's the North Star. Then there's the Big Dipper. And then . . ."

And Fergie's words, though said in jest, probably tells the story of the Shamrocks 12 to 6 defeat by Richmond, best of all.

There were no stars. The team simply played its worst game of the season. Richmond, though the winners, were no fireballs and the only performance of note in the entire game was the four-goal trick by Kerries' Roddy McLeod.

For only one brief period of five minutes in the fourth period did the Shamrocks display any of their usual hustle and then they couldn't find the net.

MISERABLE SHOOTING

The shooting was extremely weak. Time and time again forwards missed the goal by feet when in close. Loose balls were something to be avoided while the spasmodic efforts at checking gave the Kerries all the scoring chances they needed.

Buzz Long, who started in the Shamrock goal, fanned on a few soft shots in the middle periods but no matter who was in the nets, the Shamrocks weren't going to win with only six goals.

The dull first period of play set the tempo for the game. Richmond grabbed a 2 to 0 lead and the Shamrocks tied it up.

Fred Ranson put the Rocks in the lead for the only time shortly into the second stanza but Arkays slipped three long shots past Long to take a 5 to 3 margin at the half.

Duff McCaghey gave the Shamrocks a life when he scored the club's fourth goal shortly after the second half got under way but Arkays sifted through for

PITTSBURGH (AP)—

Both hurlers pitched no-hit ball in an independent softball game Wednesday night.

The Bellevue K. of C. downed the Laughlins 1 to 0. Pitcher Joe Metz lost the game when he walked three men and the next one filed out to bring in a run. Tiny Yakels of the K.C.'s fanned 17 men. His game was perfect except for a hit batsman in the fourth inning.

May 24 Loss Shown Less Than Rumored

Secretary's Post Abolished As Lions Club Help Offer Accepted

Post mortem on the somewhat mangled May 24 festivities was a well-ordered but querying affair in Chamber of Commerce board room Wednesday night, which revealed a deficit of $1,188, not a previously rumored $6,000.

Why and how the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association went into the red ink was given step by step by Esquimalt Reeve A. I. Thomas, who took over chairmanship two months before May 24, on the illness of Ald. Charles F. Banfield.

During the evening the 30 representatives abolished the $3,000-a-year paid secretary's post and accepted an offer from the Lions Club to participate, $50, on the proceeds of the Gorge barrel run, to recoup.

They heard some of their members speak of "bungling in the past," infer dictatorial action on the part of directors, and one director offer his resignation because he sensed a lack of confidence in the directorate.

They listened intently while Reeve Thomas took the City Council to task for interference NOT WITHIN RIGHTS.

"The City Council did not act within its rights," he said. "I have told them that and I think they agree they jumped to conclusions. I don't think any member of the association has anything to apologize for and we are certainly not entitled to the severe criticism. Our deficit is not as startling as some people thought."

Biggest disappointment was the sale of booster buttons, which netted $1,520 instead of the anticipated $6,000.

Happy note was struck by the offer of the Lions Club to include the Celebrations Association in their Gorge Barrel Run, to take place in September, with the proceeds to be divided equally between the Lions charities and the association.

William Bridgwood, representing the Fraternal Order of Eagles, earlier stated the deficit was not $1,188 but actually $4,345 on the grounds that the association had a credit balance from 1949 of $3,157.

"If we had $3,157 to start with, why should we say we have only a $1,188 deficit?" he asked.

Reeve Thomas recommended abolishing the secretary's post "forthwith" and Ald. Banfield made the motion. Mr. Bridgwood, Robert MacLachlan of the Native Sons of Canada and Thomas Chalmers were named a committee to work with the Lions on negotiations for the barrel run.

"Last fall the association in their wisdom got a paid secretary at $3,000 a year for continuity of work regarding May 24," Reeve Thomas said.

LESS THAN ANTICIPATED

He explained formation of the Capital City Skating Club which was to bring $5,000 from memberships and pay the secretary with a surplus for the association. He added, however, that the arena officials cancelled Saturday skating for the club and consequently $1,306, not $5,000 was realized. The office was kept on, he continued.

"I supported the booster button campaign as I thought it would go over big and the citizens would back it as the only means of financing the festivities, Reeve Thomas said.

Plans for future citizenship days and promotion of the project throughout the year were discussed at a meeting of the naturalization and citizenship sub-committee of Greater Victoria Citizenship Council Tuesday night at Welfare House.

Mrs. G. H. Gardiner, citizenship convener of Local Council of Women reported on the "I Am a Citizen Day" program in Beacon Hill Park, Sunday.

She listed various organizations and groups which participated and expressed appreciation for their co-operation, making particular reference to Miss Ellen Hart for her preparation of scripts.

Miss Ethel Bruce, chairman of the council, resigned. She will leave the city Thursday for Copenhagen, Denmark, to attend a conference of the Associated Countrywomen of the World.

Volunteer Leader Lack Increases Gang Menace

Until people realize the need of developing responsible volunteer leadership in training of young people, juvenile delinquency and the menace of the gang will increase, R. E. Lawrence, chairman of recreation division, Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria, told the quarterly meeting at Welfare House.

He was commenting on lack of public support accorded the recent Institute of Recreational Leadership directed by Dr. Alan F. Klein, University of Toronto.

In his talk, Mr. Lawrence referred to the "loss to Victoria in neglecting to develop the Gorge waterway, which could provide a million-dollar asset in health, enjoyment and beauty for our city."

Miss Mildred Wright, superintendent of Family Welfare and Children's Aid Society, commended the volunteer leadership of some members of the police force in recreational programs.

She said she would like to see a further development along this line with the possibility of a service club sponsorship.

Functioning of two committees, one dealing with a family service for Greater Victoria and the other with training of the handicapped child, was reported by Mrs. E. C. Peters, chairman of child and family welfare division.

A. W. Hammond is chairman of the first and Miss C. Perkins, public health nurse, chairman of the second.

Appointment of Miss E. Lawrence, mental hygiene consultant in the schools was commended by the council.

Appreciation for honors conferred on Miss Laura Holland, O.B.E., for outstanding work in health and welfare fields in Canada, was expressed by the council. Miss Holland received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from U.B.C. at spring convocation and a $10,000 scholarship in social work is being presented U.B.C. in her honor.

R. Bialuski, executive director, reported on the recently organized Citizenship Council of Greater Victoria, now functioning with committees on education, welfare, naturalization and citizenship.

Federal Action On Lumber Price Increase Demanded By C.C.F. Party Leader In B.C.

The B.C. section of the C.C.F. is demanding the federal government take immediate action to restore the price of domestic lumber to "a reasonable level."

Harold E. Winch, party chief in B.C. and leader of the opposition in the Provincial Legislature, has wired M. J. Coldwell, national C.C.F. chief, protesting the recent increase here in lumber prices and asking that he take every possible step to have Ottawa guarantee domestic lumber needs at reasonable prices.

C.C.F. objection to the recent boost in the price of lumber follows complaints by the B.C. Building Contractors' Association and certain labor groups, including the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council.

"Lumber operators," says Mr. Winch, "have increased prices on the domestic market to the extent of 33 1/2 per cent, or approximately $26 per thousand. This means the price of lumber has doubled since price controls were removed."

PLANNED IN ADVANCE

Mr. Winch claims the recent increase was planned well in advance by the lumber operators.

"It has been reported to the C.C.F. from a very reliable source that the price increase was decided upon prior to the conclusion of union negotiations with the employers," he said.

on the TIMES

By ART STOTT

THE SPOTLIGHT on Korea focusses Stewart Clark's memory on a shipboard incident there in his earlier years. Stewart explains that traditional Korean dress was a little out of the ordinary. It included a long white coat that came halfway between the knees and the ankles and a strange headgear that appeared to be a horseshoe brim above which the wearer's hair was piled. On top of the hair was an inverted flowerpot-type hat. To western eyes, the ensemble was an unusual bit of haberdashery.

On the ship with Clark were a number of Americans who enjoyed an evening game of black jack or poker in the smoking room. As they played one evening, an elderly Korean, resplendent in national costume, sat in an adjoining chair.

HIS APPEARANCE drew some acid comment from the card players who spoke in their own idiom on the peculiarities of their neighbor's dress. As the patriarch sat impassively smoking his pipe, seemingly unaware of their remarks, the wisecracks grew a little broader. They just weren't polite.

The poker game tightened up. The player whose back was to the Korean held a full house. As the betting mounted, he finally cracked and threw in his cards. The winner disclosed his hand. He held nothing, but had carried the bluff.

The old Korean, interested when the game became tense, exploded with laughter, turned to the loser and remarked: "You had a tight, but you let him kid you out of it." He was poker-wise from a long sojourn in the United States—sharp with the idiom, too.

WHEN YOU SEE a member of the legal profession walking down the street with his traditional bag thrown over his back, look again. You may be seeing a disappearing species. The barrister's bag is being snowed under by an avalanche of brief cases. The brief case is smart. It lends a man an air—even if he's only packing his lunch in it. You delve into antiquity when you seek origins and particulars about the bags. One lawyer may tell you they are supposed to be robbing bags—receptacles for the gowns, shirts, ties and other articles of dress. They were needed, he may add, when courts went on circuit. Another may explain that the bags were essential when each barrister had to carry his own law books, before law societies brought district libraries up to their present standards.

SUCH DIFFERENCES of opinion are natural among lawyers. Where would the profession be if everyone agreed? But few will risk an opinion on the color of the bags. Tradition says that a law student may carry a black bag, a barrister a blue one. A King's Counsel's bag is red and a judge's green. Conceivably the red is the "royal purple" of an earlier day when the King held powers of final appeal, when a man could take his case to the foot of the Throne.

Whatever the colors mean, the bag is going out, like the wig. The late Chief Justice Archer Martin was the last to wear that adornment in this part of the world for court appearances, and then only for sittings in Admiralty. Now if you want to see a ceremonial wig, you have to catch "Bob" Wootton at his special duties with the Christ Church Cathedral officials.

THE WIG HAS GONE, and it's a pity to those who are growing thin on top. But it looks as if the lawyer's gown is here to stay for a while longer. On one occasion the gowns were laid aside. During the power commission hearings a vast array of counsel sat in a room during hot weather. The presiding judge, for humanity's sake, invited the lawyers to doff the drapes. They can be expensive garments—$70 for an ordinary gown, a lot more for "silks" when you can buy them.

Senior courts are fairly punctilious about the gown. It's the uniform of office and most members of the profession agree that it should be maintained. The bench isn't quite as tough on those improperly dressed as it once was, but it doesn't stand for liberties.

The day is still within the memory of most barristers when a local judge, pointedly ignoring a lawyer who tried to speak when he was not gowned, repeated the well-known quotation, "I hear a voice, but I see no one."

THAT RATED a place in the late Oswald Barton's collection of "Solitor's Slips and Baristers' Blunders," an amusing little compilation of things that shouldn't happen in a court.

FATHER SWAN FIGHTS DOG FOR FAMILY

How a father swan fought off a dog attacking his six signets, was told by Beacon Hill Park policeman John McLeod in city police court today.

"The parent swan put up quite a fight," Mr. McLeod told Magistrate H. C. Hall. Owner of the dog, Nick Mangos, 833-Burdett Avenue, was fined $10 for allowing his dog to be in the park unaccompanied on June 22.

"It was not a wilful act. The dog had run away from home," J. G. Rutan, counsel, explained after pleading guilty for accused.

First Accident Since Traffic Light Put In

A 69-year-old woman was injured at 9:05 this morning at Fort and Quadra Streets in the first serious accident there since a traffic light was installed.

Taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital by city police with possible fractures of the left shoulder and right hip was Mrs. M. S. Hope, 946 Fort Street. She was crossing the street with her son, Patrick, when the accident occurred. Constable Arthur Deeks said a car driven by Arthur G. Broughton, 2751 Richmond Road, was proceeding east on Fort and was in collision with the woman while making a left-hand turn onto Quadra. He said Mrs. Hope was crossing in the north pedestrian lane from east to west.

SEEK LEGISLATION ON 'PEEPING TOMS'

Must Include Safeguards Against 'Honest But Careless' Persons, Says B.C. Lawyer

Special Criminal Code legislation for "Peeping Toms" was proposed by Ernest B. Bull, chairman of the administration of criminal justice committee at the annual meeting of the B.C. section, Canadian Bar Association, at the Empress Hotel today.

Mr. Bull pointed out the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada in a recent case decided in effect that no offence in criminal law is committed by a person who acts as a "Peeping Tom."

"The simple act of deliberate and stealthy peeping through windows or apertures of supposedly private places, usually with an intent of enjoying an exotic pleasure from the sight of undress or the private conduct of an unsuspecting person, is not in itself forbidden or unlawful," he stated.

NOT UNCOMMON

"Reports have reached the committee that this exciting but unpleasant practice is far from being uncommon," he added. Mr. Bull noted that in Vancouver alone authorities received between 20 and 30 complaints of this nature every month.

In recommending special legislation, Mr. Bull said the committee was not unmindful of the danger of creating such an offence without proper safeguards to insure that the honest, but perhaps careless or unthinking person, was not subjected to the stigma of being charged as a "Peeping Tom."

It will be the first of a series of outdoor shows to be presented each Thursday night throughout the summer by members of the Greater Victoria Film Council.

Tonight's show is under the auspices of the film council and the Victoria Public Library. This is the third year the summer presentations have been held. All work connected with the shows is done voluntarily by Greater Victoria Film Board members.

V. G. Holland, 3385 Upper Terrace, a member of the Canadian Scottish rifle team. Third was W. R. Read, A.P.R.A. The Father and Son match started shortly after noon. The first stage of the Lieutenant-Governor's match is scheduled to take place later today.

Two local riflemen took top honors at the 66th annual prize meeting of the B.C.R.A. today. Major A. E. Evans, R.A., 726 Suffolk Street, and F. Morse, 4060 Saanich Road won the Duff Stuart match and the Vancouver Corporation match, respectively.

Evans posted a perfect score of 50 in the Duff Stuart match, shot over a 300-yard range, while Morse's score was 49 over the 600-yard range.

Shooting conditions at Heals Range this morning were described as good. There was a gentle breeze blowing and light conditions were much improved over Wednesday's glaring sunshine.

Second in the Duff Stuart match was Capt. A. Goodson, B.C. Regt. R.A., who marked up a score of 48. Mrs. Eileen Leary took third place with the same score as Goodson but lost to him in a count-back. A members of the local Canadian Scottish rifle team, she is the first woman shooter to finish in the top three.

Fourth in the match was Sgt. J. W. Lightburn, who Wednesday won the Westminster match. In winning the Vancouver Corporation match, Mr. Morse was only one point off a perfect score, posting an inner on his third round.

Second in the match was Lieut. J. W. Lightburn, who Wednesday won the Westminster match. In winning the Vancouver Corporation match, Mr. Morse was only one point off a perfect score, posting an inner on his third round.

NIGHT BLAST UNEXPLAINED

Cause of the sharp explosion heard by Victorians at 11:30 Wednesday night was still a mystery today.

Police, fire officials, navy and army authorities could throw no light on the matter. It seemed to some people the sound centred in the Inner Harbor area.

The sound was not unlike that of heavy artillery.

Fighting For Law In Next War Says A.-G.

In the event of another war, Canada would be fighting for the rule of law rather than the rule of dictatorship, Attorney-General Gordon Wismer told delegates attending the B.C. section of the Canadian Bar Association at the Empress Hotel today.

Mr. Wismer added that the judges were the bulwark of liberty in Canada.

The meeting was opened by J. A. Clark, K.C., vice-president of the Canadian Bar Association for B.C. Approximately 150 delegates from all parts of the province were present.

Chief Justice Gordon McG. Sloan welcomed the delegates. Members also heard a brief address from A. N. Carter, K.C., of St. John, N.B., president of the Canadian Bar Association. Mr. Carter was also speaker at a luncheon.

Boys Seen During Car-Entry Attempt

Police are checking the boy occupants of an old-model car who managed to get away from Constable Albert Wilson at 11:45 Wednesday night when the officer saw them trying to break into a California car parked on the city streets. Wilson got the license plate number of the old car.

Report Favorable Progress On Major Building Projects

CHERRY TREE RAIDS ENDED

Two boys who were raiding the cherry trees at W. P. Bondesen's 1122 Mears Street garden at 11:25 Wednesday night, were caught by the owner.

Constables Norman Galbraith and Albert Harwood took the boys, aged 15 and 11, home to their parents and cautioned them about stealing. The boys broke down a fence on the property in their raid.

Island Roads Reported In Good Shape

Report on Vancouver Island roads for holiday week-end travelers was made today by the provincial public works department.

Highways, for the most part, are in good condition and travel is expected to be heavy.

There are some sections under construction which have the "rocky road to Dublin" appearance, but they are passable at slower speeds.

The Sooke Highway from Dewdney Flats to the Island Highway is torn up and dusty. It is being attended to every day to control dust and should be in good condition in a few weeks.

The Island Highway from Duncan to Ladysmith is open to traffic but has not been surfaced yet; and from Bowser to Cook Creek, north of Qualicum, construction and surfacing is being undertaken; there is another stretch of construction under way also, two miles from just north of Courtenay to Sandwick.

On the Alberni Highway construction is proceeding for six miles at Alberni Hill.

From Alberni three miles east the highway is gravelled and in good condition, while the remaining three miles requires extra caution.

To Dredge At Alberni

Dredging operations will commence in Port Alberni Harbor Monday and continue for about three months, the Department of Transport here announced today.

Dredge will be located west of the Shell Oil Co. wharf on the shoal ground in that area and will remain on station day and night. It will display two vertical black balls during the day and two vertical red lights at night.

Mariners are advised to use caution in the area.

Good Weather Aids Contractors As Industry-Wide Holiday Approaches

When building tradesmen lay down their tools Friday afternoon for the annual week-long holiday throughout the industry, it will be with the knowledge that all major jobs are progressing favorably.

With strikes and adverse weather behind them, construction companies are happier than they have been for some time although they are having difficulties with carpenters seeking wage increases.

Scheduled completion dates of major projects in Victoria had to be changed following the severe winter and labor trouble.

NEW POST OFFICE

At the site of the new Post Office building at Government and Yates Street, first cement for the street floor was laid this week, and all slabs on that level should be in place within a month.

A spokesman for Northern Construction Co. and J. W. Stewart Ltd., contractors, said the $2,073,000, five-story structure should be ready for occupancy about next April, barring unforeseen circumstances.

The same company expects to complete the $500,000 B.C. Power Commission building at Burdett and Blanshard Streets in October.

The building is now taking shape as the last concrete for the top floor will be poured today and Friday. The roof will be put on next.

When completed the building will house the head office departments of the government-sponsored power commission. At present, these offices occupy three different buildings in the city.

CONCRETE ALL POURED

At the $1,500,000 provincial government building at Government and Superior Streets, all concrete has been poured window frames are going in, plastering has commenced on the main floor and the elevators are being installed.

A start has been made on the new boiler house behind the four-story structure, but it has been found necessary to drive a large number of piles into the ground to form a solid footing, since soft blue clay was encountered.

Twenty-one piles have already been driven, and considerably more will be sunk later.

Contractor is Dawson and Hall Construction Co., which is also handling the Saanich reservoir project now nearing completion.

George Wheaton, contractor for the $173,000 building to house the provincial hospital insurance service offices, said a portion of the Michigan Street structure now has the roof on, and is hoped part of the building will be ready for occupancy by mid-summer.

ing will be ready for occupancy by mid-summer.

"As long as the materials are here, we can go ahead. It's not a case of short supply, but the mills are loaded with orders, and there could be delays in getting some things," Mr. Wheaton said.

He reported the $87,000 addition to the King's Printers at Government and Superior Streets is now in the finishing stages, and that pouring of the concrete for the street floor of the Strathcona Hotel addition started today.

Completion of new offices and face-lifting at City Hall is scheduled for mid-September.

The $32,000 job, being done by Luney Bros. and Hamilton Ltd., consists of putting in new entrances, putting a new outer finish on the old building, and construction of new offices in the former courtyard area on the north side.

CIVIL SERVANTS MEET

Federated Superannuated Civil Servants will meet next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 in the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion.

Care Saves Your Stockings
And Will Save You Pennies

By PENNY SAVER

"Women just won't take an extra few minutes, these days, to care for their stockings," said the manageress of a ladies' wear shop, "they'd rather be in here every week buying new stockings. Personally," she added emphatically, "I don't know how they do it!"

This conversation all started when I stopped to chat about the way women are always commenting that their stockings "just aren't what they used to be," or talk of the days before the war when nylons used to wear like iron. No wonder, some of them were as thick as iron!

What the average femme fatale doesn't seem to realize is that the early nylons were 30 or 40 deniers. Today, many are 15 and 20 denier. In other words, twice as sheer and twice as fine.

Seems pretty good reasoning that when you take a steel wire and stretch it out to a fraction of its original thickness, it obviously won't have its original strength. Yet, some women expect a 15 denier stocking to have the same durability as a 30 or 40 (technical today, aren't we?).

Denier, by the by, is the measure of the weight and thickness, of the thread used in making hosiery. The higher the denier, the stronger the thread and the more durable the stockings. For instance, a 30 denier yarn is twice as heavy and twice as strong as a 15 denier.

Evidently, before the war and even for some time after, nylon stockings were almost all made from heavier denier yarns such as 30 and 40.

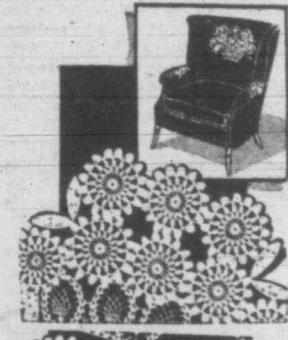

But you know, we gals wanted sheer hosiery and by jingo it wasn't very long before ultra-sheer hosiery became a must for every smartly attired woman.

As far as the durability of your stockings are concerned, a great deal depends on the type of shoes you wear... whether the lining is a smooth or rough finish... and if you stop just a few seconds to apply a wee bit of lotion to your hands before picking up your stockings. Suggested wear for the working woman is a higher denier or stronger stocking, keeping your 15 denier stockings for dress-up affairs.

A few months ago nylons took quite a drop in price and the former $2.50, 15 denier sheers are now $1.95; 51 gauge, about a 20 denier, $1.75, and the 42 gauge, 30 denier, $1.49.

Just as a sidelight, the manageress' husband, who used to have a ready-to-wear business of his own, laughingly told of the early 1900's when sheer cottons sold for 12 cents a pair. You had a choice, too, either you bought the black stockings or you didn't! Big deal!

Moose Picnic
At Elk Lake

Annual Moose picnic sponsored by Victoria Chapter No. 25, and Victoria Lodge No. 1390, was held at Elk Lake last Sunday with representatives from Duncan and Nanaimo lodges present. A program of sports was arranged, with an exhibition by Moose girls' drill team, under direction of S. T. Cawsey, and a ball game between Moose girls' softball team and men of the organization, the girls winning.

Co-chairman for the event were Mrs. Violet Warren and A. Clevette. Victoria Chapter No. 25 announced that a summer party will be held at the home of Graduate Regent D. Guelpa, Glen Lake, on July 15 for members and friends. Special mention is also made of the appointment of two youngest members of the chapter, Cowan and Arlene Johnson and Violet Oakland, as guide and assistant guide, respectively on the chapter ritualistic team.

DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have a friend who during the entire five years of her married life has supported an able-bodied husband who has never done a hand's turn of work. She has turned over to him every cent of her salary except lunch money and car fare, out of which she buys small necessities. She doesn't even buy clothes, as her relatives keep her supplied. The husband never gives her a word of praise. Instead, he tells her how lucky she is to have him, how many girls he could have if he were not married and that she is a ball and chain around his feet. Once in a while she bursts out in protest, but only to beg his forgiveness for doing so when she sees that he is liable to break every piece of furniture in the house as a result of his nasty temper. This woman is only 22. What do you think of a case like this?

DISGUSTED. Answer: My first thought is one of contemptuous pity for a woman who is feeble-minded enough to waste her life slaving for a lazy loafer, who does not even throw her a kind word as one might pitch a bone to a hungry dog. My second thought is a truer one, and that is that my pity is wasted, for she is having the time of her life. She is doing exactly what she wants to do and enjoys doing, or, else she wouldn't do it.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By MARGUERITE DALZIEL

Miss Morley Parker shows the attractive beach towel-bathing suit set introduced this season in local stores.

Lovely to look at and luxurious and comfortable to wear are the eye-catching swim suits the young gals are totting along to beaches, lakes and swimming pools this season.

Glamour and practicability may well be the keynote of this important part of summer wearing apparel.

In this city, the trend is for sleek, one-piece models according to saleswomen.

"Teenagers are all clamoring for one-pieces, and that is what designers are giving them," they state, and add that the past few weeks of sunshine have brought a great demand for suits.

Young women are paying as much attention to how their suits will look on the beach, as in the water, saleswomen point out.

One of the newest and most popular suits to be displayed in local stores, is a cotton, reinforced with nylon. It is completely elasticized without giving a poured into, skin-tight effect, for it features an all-over, shirred pattern.

No strap marks will mar the lovely bronze of a perfectly tanned back, for it has halter strap neckline which leaves its wearer's back completely bare. It holds its strength and there is no danger of shrinkage or stretching. Sells for $15.95.

A brand-new feature in swim suits is the uplift bra, fitted right into the swim suit. A navy blue model featuring this trend, is fashioned of shirred elastex. The bra holds the suit firm enough that straps are optional for its wearer. Cost is $10.95.

If you are looking for something a little different there is a suit in nylon—almost a brushed nylon—with soft, nobby surface in stunning, flamingo red. It has classic princess lines... and is quick drying. Sale price is $14.95.

Colors in suits are particularly beautiful — chartreuse, gleaming with almost a metallic brightness; turquoise, butter yellow, blue, lighter than navy; dazzling white,

Approximately $300 was realized.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The belief that there is some factor in human milk which will make less active the virus of polio (as reported by Dr. Albert Sabin of the Cincinnati Children's Hospital Research Foundation) should spur more mothers to nurse their babies. It has been noted by mothers of a generation ago that "their" babies never had polio, or so infrequently that it was notable. No one ever worried about it, as they worry today. And, also, most old-time mothers nursed their babies!

In talking to young mothers about breast-feeding you get astonishing responses. "I never had any milk," one will say. "It hurt so badly I couldn't stand it," from another. "Oh, bottle babies are good enough for me. I don't see why anyone bothers." True, nursing can be painful. True, there is bother to any ceremony which is worth while. True, some mothers do not have much milk, at first, but there are ways in which a better supply can be promoted. As in all other avenues of life, the "know how" is the avenue to success.

Our leaflet No. 4, "Information for the Nursing Mother," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

The only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Huddleston, 243 Obed Avenue, and son of A. K. Katzer, Edmonton, and the late Mrs. Katzer, spoke their wedding vows last evening in Gorge Presbyterian Church, before Rev. T. H. McAllister.

An heirloom necklace of pearls and amethysts was the "something old" selected by the bride, with her period gown of fine white organdy embroidered in lily of the valley pattern. Pearls enriched the lace edged bodice, finished with yoke of lace and were repeated in the coronet crowning her chapel veil. Scarlet roses were arranged with heather sprays in her bouquet.

Esther Reid daisies in round bouquets were carried by a trio of attendants.

Miss Ada Norman, maid of honor, was frocked in palest yellow voile, and wore a crown of stephanotis in her hair.

All Of S.E. Asia Potential Korea

Part Of Democrat World Now May
Draw Western Support If Attacked

By JAMES E. ROPER

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—All of Southeast Asia is a potential Korea.

For the moment, the area is in the Democratic camp. But the governments are unstable. Communist guerrillas abound and Communist invasion from abroad is threatened.

The United States expects its intervention in Korea to buck up southeast Asia. Indeed, American diplomats on the scene report that Indo-China, Burma, Siam, Malaya, Indonesia and the Philippines are highly encouraged at President Truman's tough policy in Korea.

These countries think the United States would fight against Communist guerrillas should they attack their immediate neighbors—the 59,000,000 persons in Indo-China, Burma and Siam.

Southeast Asia already is getting additional western help in fighting Communists on the home front.

In Indo-China, the 80,000 Communist guerrillas are getting more weapons from Red China.

FRANCE ENGAGED
France has an army of 150,000 men engaged almost exclusively in fighting them and the west is throwing in $15,000,000 more in military aid. It includes C-47 transport planes being delivered to Saigon today and more aircraft, trucks, signal equipment and boats to be delivered later.

Shooting echoes through the country every night with trade and agriculture disrupted. Without western arms, Indo-China would be an easy plum for the Communists to pick. But Indo-China has a shaky future even if it escapes invasion by Chinese Communists.

The Chinese Reds also have their eyes on rice-rich Thailand (Siam) and Burma.

THAILAND WEAK
Thailand's government is weak, and the nation is often described as being "more of a willow than an oak." The Siamese collaborated with their Japanese conquerors during the war, and might play ball with the Communists. The Reds are reported negotiating with a former Japanese puppet in Siam with the idea of returning him to power as the Kremlin's tool.

Burma, which split away from the British Commonwealth only three years ago, is so fiercely nationalistic that it hesitates to accept aid from its old empire allies. It may be especially weak if Communist China should attack. The United States is keeping hands off Burma, figuring that Australia or other Commonwealth nations should encourage it to fight Communist. Three Red armies are within its borders.

The three-nation bloc of Burma, Thailand and Indo-China are an obvious target for Communism's southward expansion. Should they fall, Communism next might grab for the fabulously rich rubber plantations of Malaya, where British influence now dominates.

Beyond Malaya is Indonesia and oil. Malaya has a few thousand Communist guerrillas which are especially effective for their numbers. Indonesia long has suffered internal strife.

To the north lie the Philippines, where the political and economic situation is steadily worsening. The Communist-led Huk guerrillas are growing bolder, and the economy of this potentially wealthy country is sagging.

Choir Concert Aids Reid Fund

The Reid Family Assistance Fund has been increased by nearly $60, according to H. Harrison, president of the Cambrian Glee Singers.

The choir group gave a benefit concert in the First Marigold Scouts Association Community Hall Tuesday night.

The Reid Fund now stands at $4,653.

Plane Crashed When Overweight

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board said, Wednesday, the Westair Company's twin-engine C-46 which plunged into the sea June 5 with 65 persons aboard was 2,335 pounds overweight.

The plane crashed into the Atlantic northeast of Miami after an engine had failed while it was flying farm workers from Puerto Rico to Wilmington, N.C.

Only 37 survivors, including the crew of three, were picked up out of the sea after the crash.

ANSCOMB PLAYS SANTA CLAUS

B.C. municipal councils will think Christmas has come six months early, following announcements by Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb Wednesday.

At the same time he was reporting he had the municipalities' $3,116,413 sales tax share ready for distribution within the next few days, he announced he would have their share of motor vehicle revenue ready for distribution early in July.

Violators Of Act To Be Prosecuted

National Employment Service office here has announced it will prosecute any person violating the Unemployment Insurance Act.

Employment officials pointed out that during the early years of the unemployment insurance program there may have been some reason for failure to observe its provisions. Now, however, they said the act had been in effect for nearly a decade and there was no excuse for violating its provisions.

In analyzing prosecutions in Canada during the past year, they pointed out prosecutions against employers for failure to pay contributions on behalf of insurable employees totaled 270, as compared with 69 in 1948-49.

The Victoria Public Library will be closed all day Saturday, library officials announce.

Sterling Acceptance Would Increase Trade, Says Holmes

If Canada agreed to take sterling in part for her goods, trade with Britain would be increased greatly, H. Cuthbert Holmes told members of the Real Estate Board of Victoria at a luncheon meeting at the Empress Hotel Wednesday.

Mr. Holmes, who recently returned from an eight-month tour of Britain and Europe, felt that Canada would benefit by accepting sterling in payment for Canadian goods.

Optimistic About Future Of P.C.'s In B.C. Politics

Leslie Bewley, provincial president of the Young Progressive Conservative Association, told a meeting of the Victoria Chapter that Progressive Conservative strength in B.C. was on the upswing and that he was optimistic about the party's future.

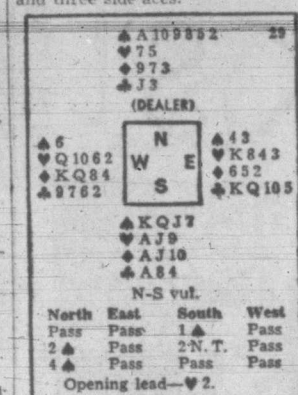

Mr. Bewley went so far as to say if the provincial Legislature at its next session adopted the single transferable ballot, the Progressive Conservative Party would form the next provincial government.

Speaking at Prince Robert House, Mr. Bewley denied that Young Progressive Conservatives were seeking to have David Fulton, M.P. for Okanagan, elected at the party convention in October as provincial P.C. leader.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

There are some hands that the average player can play every bit as well as the master, but today's hand is not of that type. The delicate handling given to it by John R. Crawford in a rubber bridge game recently will make it very clear why John is one of my favorite bridge partners.

North should have passed at three no-trump. His partner's bidding showed a balanced hand, and North should have realized that his long spades would be just as good at no-trump as at spades. Three no-trump would have been a cinch, with six spades and three side aces.

When the hand was played, at four spades, West opened the deuce of hearts, East put up the king, and Crawford won with the ace. It was clear that he had to lose a heart and a club. He could therefore afford to lose only one diamond.

The average player would decide to draw trumps and finesse diamonds twice. This would cost him the contract.

Like every true expert, Crawford does not depend on finessses when he can avoid doing so. His method was to lead the king of

WANT SIDEWALK

Eight residents of Memorial Crescent wrote the mayor and city council Wednesday requesting a concrete sidewalk, five feet wide on the west side of Memorial Crescent between May and Fairfield Road.

They asked the work be done as a local improvement under provisions of the Local Improvement Act.

Oak Bay municipal clerk A. D. Findlay reminded property owners today that Friday will be the last day for penalty-free payment of 1950 taxes.

After that day, a five per cent penalty will be levied.

spades and then a trump to dummy's ace, exhausting the trumps of the opponents. Next he led dummy's remaining heart. When East played low, Crawford finessed his nine of hearts, hoping to force out the queen.

As it happened, West was able to win with the 10 of hearts. West then returned the deuce of clubs, hoping his partner would win and would return a diamond. East put up the 10 of clubs, and South won with the ace.

Crawford next led the jack of hearts, and West played the queen. Instead of ruffing in the dummy, Crawford discarded dummy's remaining club. Now there was no way for West to give his partner the lead. When he led a second round of clubs, dummy could ruff. Crawford got back to his hand with a trump to ruff out his last club in the dummy. He was then in position to finesse the diamonds.

West won the first round of diamonds with the queen. If he then returned a diamond, it would ride up to South's ace-jack. If West returned anything else, dummy could ruff while South discarded the jack of diamonds.

It is interesting to see that the contract would have been defeated if East had been able to gain the lead once in clubs. East would have returned a diamond, allowing his partner to win a diamond finesse. At this point, West could still get out safely with a club. He could then wait for his second diamond trick to come to him.
